NEW CARBON EMISSION ESTIMATES

on TRAVELPORT+

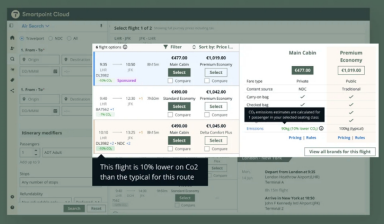

Provided by Travalyst

Hi there,

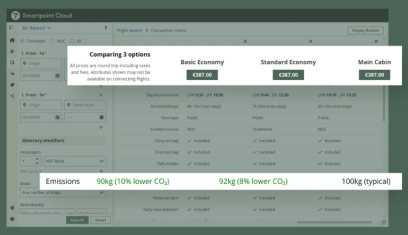

Eco-conscious choices are more important than ever to travelers, and we want you to be able to deliver what they want, again and again. The good news? New, improved, and more transparent air carbon emission estimate ratings now available on Travelport+.

Here's what you can expect.

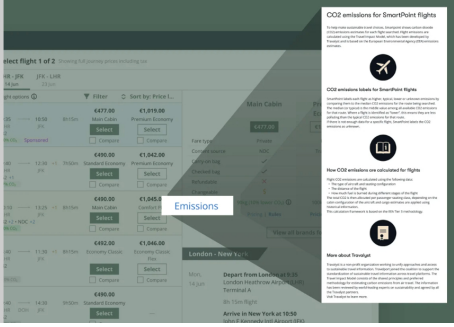

You can easily compare options across carriers in the Point of Sale, as when you search a flight, you see the price, duration, and carbon emission estimates. These carbon emission estimate ratings are provided via Travalyst, a not-for-profit whose coalition we're a member of. These ratings are easy to understand as there's a handy tooltip that explains the higher, typical, or lower labels based on the estimated median CO2 emissions for the route being searched.

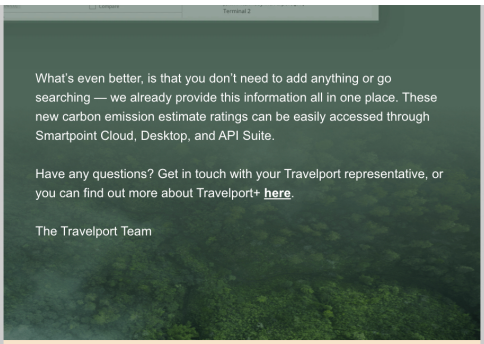

In our comparison matrix, you can compare the estimated carbon emissions for selected flights across carriers.

And, we've created an explainer page for you, which you can navigate to easily from within the platform.

What's even better, is that you don't need to add anything or go searching — we already provide this information all in one place. These new carbon emission estimate ratings can be easily accessed through Smartpoint Cloud, Desktop, and API Suite.
