When W Korea asked Rosé (far left) what was on her bucket list for 2024, she said she wants to release "a lot of music," host a fan meeting and fansign event—and go on a trip with her dog, Hank.

Get the latest on their new album, world tour, solo projects and more.

A New Album and a World Tour?!

The end of 2023 marked a significant milestone for Blackpink when the group renewed its contract with longtime agency YG Entertainment. Although members Jisoo, Jennie, Rosé and Lisa have officially parted ways with the company, taking their solo endeavors elsewhere, YG will still manage Blackpink's group activities—which reportedly include a new album and world tour in 2024. This is music to Blinks' ears!

In a press release announcing Blackpink's contract renewal, YG's founder and chief producer, Yang Hyun-suk, said, "We are happy to continue our relationship with Blackpink. We will provide our best support so that Blackpink may keep on shining as not only our company's iconic artist but also that of K-pop. We send our unwavering support and trust in their paths to come."

As the members of Blackpink navigate this transitional phase, the anticipation among fans is palpable. The group wrapped up their lucrative Born Pink World Tour in September 2023 at the iconic Gocheok Sky Dome in Seoul, South Korea. It secured the No. 1 spot on Billboard Boxscore's list of the Top 10 Highest Grossing K-pop Tours of 2023, making $148.3 million and earning the distinction of being the highest-grossing world tour ever by a female group—a record previously held by the Spice Girls. So, if Blackpink were to tour again in 2024, then they will likely also release another album. And the Pinks' go-to producer, Teddy Park, will surely be involved.

Jisoo hinted at both in a birthday message to Jennie in January 2024, writing, "Don't forget that you will always have me, someone who is always on your side, by your side. Let's hurry up and release an album and go on tour and go around side by side closely. I love you and happy birthday! P.S. you're my charger haha."

Going Solo-lo-lo-lo-lo

With Jisoo, Jennie, Rosé and Lisa now in charge of their solo careers, we can expect to see them embracing their individualism and pursuing new creative challenges.

Jennie was the first to reveal her plans to embark on a solo journey, announcing the establishment of her own agency, OA (Odd Atelier). She reportedly co-established the company with her mother in November 2023 after she decided not to renew her exclusive artist contract with YG. In a January 2024 episode of The Seasons: Lee Hyori's Red Carpet, Jennie shared her motivations for creating OA, emphasizing her desire for creative freedom. Her solo single, "You & Me," debuted at No. 1 on the Billboard Global Excl. U.S. chart after its release in October 2023 and she revealed that her dream is to drop a debut full-length album in 2024. In March, she released "Slow Motion," a collaboration with Brockhampton's Matt Champion.

Meanwhile, Lisa kicked off 2024 with a stunning solo performance on the global stage, performing at Le Gala des Pièces Jaunes in Paris on Jan. 26. She even snapped a pic with Rihanna behind the scenes. YG reportedly offered Lisa up to $40 million to renew her contract but she decided to be her own boss, announcing the creation of her artist management company, LLOUD, in February. The agency aims to "create experiences that transcend genres and connect generations" with a "commitment to authenticity" while "crafting chart-topping and genre-defying music."

In addition to being the face of Dior and Cartier, Jisoo is also taking her career into her own hands by launching Blissoo, an entertainment startup under her brother Kim Junghun's company.

Clockwise from top: Rosé is not the only one sparking speculation about a Taylor Swift collab—Lisa hung out with the singer in Singapore in March; Lisa performed solo in Paris in January; she met up with Rihanna.

As for Rosé, Blinks speculated about a superstar collaboration after the idol was spotted leaving a party hosted by Taylor Swift at a recording studio in September 2023. Then in January, Rosé got fans excited again when she posted a pic of a studio mixing desk with her name on it. Could R2 be on the way?

A Triple Threat

Blackpink have shown they're at the top of their game when it comes to singing and dancing—and now they're taking on the world of TV and movies.

We got to see a new side of Jennie in the unscripted reality series Apartment 404, a true-story mystery show from South Korean TV network tvN and Prime Video that premiered in February. While she made an impact with her role in HBO's The Idol, Apartment 404 was her first variety show appearance since 2018. Over Apartment 404's eight episodes, Jennie competed against other residents—including Running Man's Yoo Jae-suk and Yang Se-chan, Moving stars Cha Tae-hyun and Lee Jung-ha and Oh Na-ra from Alchemy of Souls—to solve mysteries based on real events occurring within an apartment block. The show marked the beginning of Jennie's solo career outside of YG and allowed her humor and personality to shine through.

In February, it was announced that Lisa would be starring in the third season of HBO's acclaimed dramedy The White Lotus under her given name, Lalisa Manobal. It makes sense, considering the show's next luxury destination is her home country of Thailand.

There's also speculation that she'll appear in The Walking Dead universe. In 2023, Lisa was seen traveling between Seoul and Paris, where the second season of The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon was filming, and in November, she was spotted alongside star Norman Reedus at a Champions League football match in Paris. Adding fuel to the fire, both Reedus and the show's official account follow Lisa on Instagram. Season 2 of The Walking Dead: Daryl Dixon will premiere on AMC in the summer of 2024.

The group's resident leading lady Jisoo will also make her feature film debut in 2025 alongside heartthrob Lee Min-ho in the star-studded film adaptation of the webtoon Omniscient Reader's Viewpoint. The story follows an ordinary office worker as his life gets turned upside down when his favorite apocalyptic web novel comes to life. Jisoo will take on the role of Lee Jih-ye, a character described as "tough but sweet"—which sounds perfect for her!

Clockwise from left: Jisoo, seen at a script read-through for Omniscient Reader's Viewpoint, began shooting the film in December; Jennie showed a new side in Apartment 404; Lisa with Walking Dead star Norman Reedus in Paris in November 2023.

A Royal Honor

The members of Blackpink are many things—chart-topping pop stars, historic Coachella performers, and fashion icons, to name a few—and in November 2023 they added another prestigious title to their names: Honorary Members of the Order of the British Empire.

King Charles III (pictured above) presented Jisoo, Jennie, Rosé and Lisa with their MBE medals at Buckingham Palace during South Korean President Yoon Suk Yeol's state visit to the U.K. They received the honor for their support of the campaign to highlight climate change, with Charles saying at the ceremony, "I can only admire how they can prioritize these vital issues, as well as being global superstars."

At the state banquet, where the girls wore stunning evening gowns, the British monarch joked, "It's amazing you're still talking to each other after all these years."

Fashion's It Girls

It's no surprise that the Pinks are in high demand for luxury fashion brands in 2024, as they've been dominating ad campaigns and landing global ambassadorships for years.

The coming months will bring even more exciting collabs to the table. Jisoo is the face of Alo Yoga's new spring 2024 collection. In a press release, the "Flower" singer said, "This partnership with Alo felt like the perfect match because my health and wellness [have] always been a priority for me. I love to move whenever I have the time, especially with yoga Pilates."

Jisoo was also recently named an ambassador for Dyson and even starred in a campaign with a special-edition Dyson Airwrap Multi Styler.

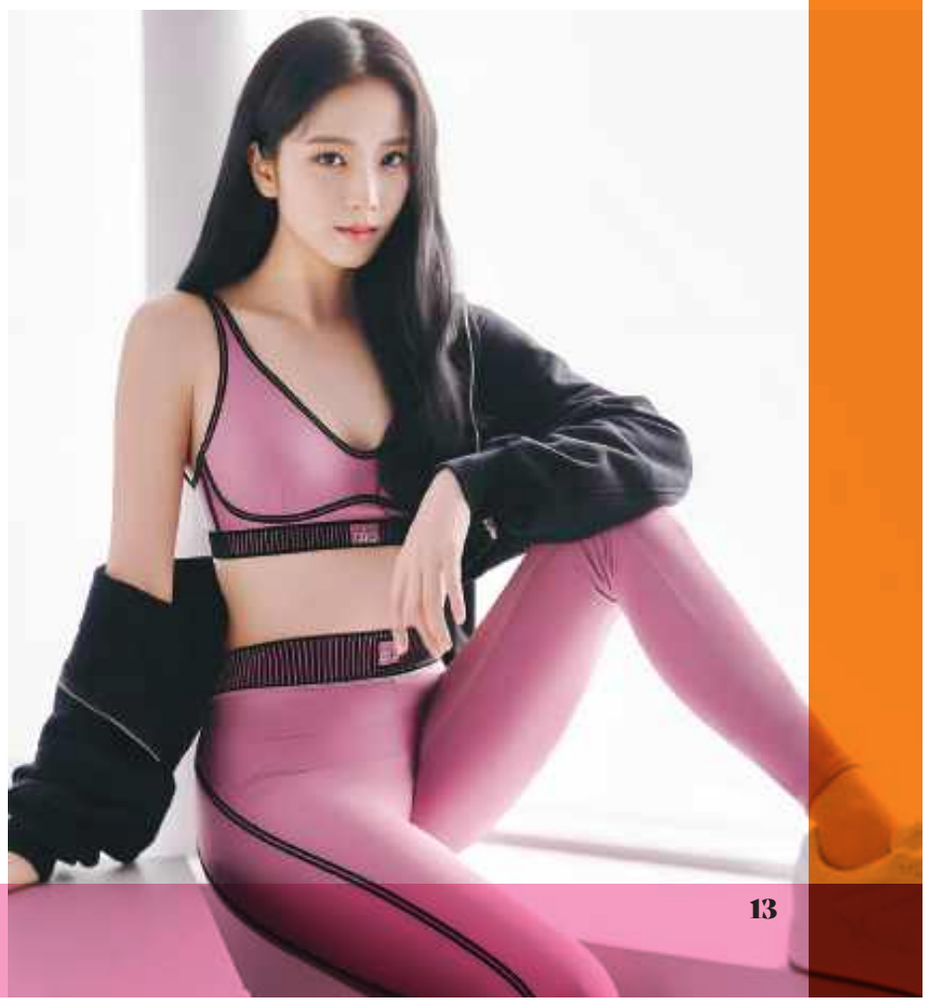

Following her exquisite Jacquemus holiday 2023 campaign, Jennie is now fronting Chanel's Coco Crush line. The singer, whom fans call the "Human Chanel," brings her chic image to the campaign, promoting the line of fine jewelry alongside French model Lucas El Bali.

As for Lisa, she's teamed up for a second time with Italian watchmaker Bulgari for a limited-edition timepiece inspired by her favorite flower, the delicate edelweiss. The watch, crafted in steel and rose gold with a diamond and mother-of-pearl dial, is described as "daring, dazzling, precious and modern"—all words synonymous with Lisa!

Jisoo

Blackpink's unofficial leader is conquering the worlds of music, acting and fashion.

Jisoo has many talents, but her ability to live in the moment and embrace the ups and downs of global superstardom with an easygoing mindset might be her most enviable.

Born Kim Jisoo in the small South Korean city of Gunpo, located southwest of Seoul, the singer and actor has always been a free spirit. The youngest of three children, Jisoo never planned on becoming a celebrity, preferring to pursue whatever interested her. Singing, painting, acting, basketball and taekwondo—she tried it all.

"Ever since childhood, I have never been afraid to face challenges, and I rarely regret my choices," she told Vogue France in January 2024. "This is why I have fun while working."

Jisoo joined YG Entertainment in July 2011 after passing the agency's audition, yet that didn't stop other companies from noticing her charisma. She was scouted by an SM Entertainment agent at another artist's concert and had to turn them down because she was already signed to YG.

Jisoo trained for five years, and in that time, she appeared in TV commercials, music videos and the K-drama The Producers before debuting with Blackpink in August 2016. As the group's lead vocalist, Jisoo is known for her warm, husky tone and mesmerizing visuals. To her members, Jisoo is Blackpink's grounding emotional force and unofficial leader. Her sense of humor can lighten any mood, and in the 2020 Netflix documentary Blackpink: Light Up the Sky, their longtime producer, Teddy Park, described her as "super smart," adding, "A lot of people might think she's book-smart, but I would say she's street-smart."

Dot, Dot, Dot

The symmetrical dots on Jisoo's face in the "How You Like That" music video were actually her idea! In a 2020 interview with Allure, makeup artist Maeng said Jisoo brought reference photos to the set and collaborated with her on the overall beauty concept, opting for something simple and striking to balance out the video's kaleidoscopic palette. At first, they were drawn on with a black eyeliner pencil before being topped with a liquid eyeliner, but for the music video, Maeng stuck small black circular gems to Jisoo's face so that the dots would stand out on-screen.

Clockwise from top right: "Intuitive, creative and free-spirited, she has captivated an entire generation," Cartier wrote of new ambassador Jisoo in 2022; she embraced color at the Christian Dior show at Paris Fashion Week in February 2023; the star paired a black skirt suit with platform saddle shoes at Dior's Fall 2024 fashion show in Paris; Jisoo looked dreamy in all-white Dior in January 2023.

SIP_242204_016-021.indd 19 3/13/24 12:28 PM

Naturally contemplative, Jisoo's also developed as a songwriter and lyricist, contributing to Blackpink's 2020 single "Lovesick Girls" and the sparkly synth-pop track "Yeah Yeah Yeah." Meanwhile, she landed her first leading role in a TV drama in 2021's Snowdrop, playing a college freshman who falls for a North Korean secret agent.

However, Jisoo's biggest creative contribution might be as a style icon. In March 2021, she was named Dior's global fashion and beauty ambassador. With her elegance and penchant for classic silhouettes, it's easy to see why she's one of the French fashion house's most influential muses. Adding to her growing portfolio of luxury brands, Jisoo became an ambassador for Cartier in 2022, cementing her status as one of the global fashion industry's most in-demand faces.

This page, clockwise from top: Jisoo and Jung Jae-in starred in Snowdrop, which screened on Disney+ in the U.S.; "Jisoo and Ahn Bo Hyun's relationship naturally became distant due to their busy schedules," a source told JTBC Entertainment News; she told Billboard that she worries about making mistakes onstage. Opposite page, top left: Jisoo became the first female K-pop soloist to have 1 million preorders with her 2023 album, Me.

SIP_242204_016-021.indd 20 3/13/24 12:28 PM

Yet she isn't always comfortable with the spotlight. It's one of the reasons Jisoo took her time making her debut solo project, Me, which was released in March 2023. Its lead single, "Flower," debuted at No. 2 on the Billboard Global 200. It boasted an addictive melody, a low-key groove and a pricey music video that spoke to Jisoo's laid-back personality and glamour.

A few months later, it was confirmed that Jisoo and actor Ahn Bo Hyun were dating. The private pair split in October, reportedly due to their busy schedules.

But Jisoo isn't dwelling on the past, telling Vogue France, "I'll live doing what I want to do, just like I do now."

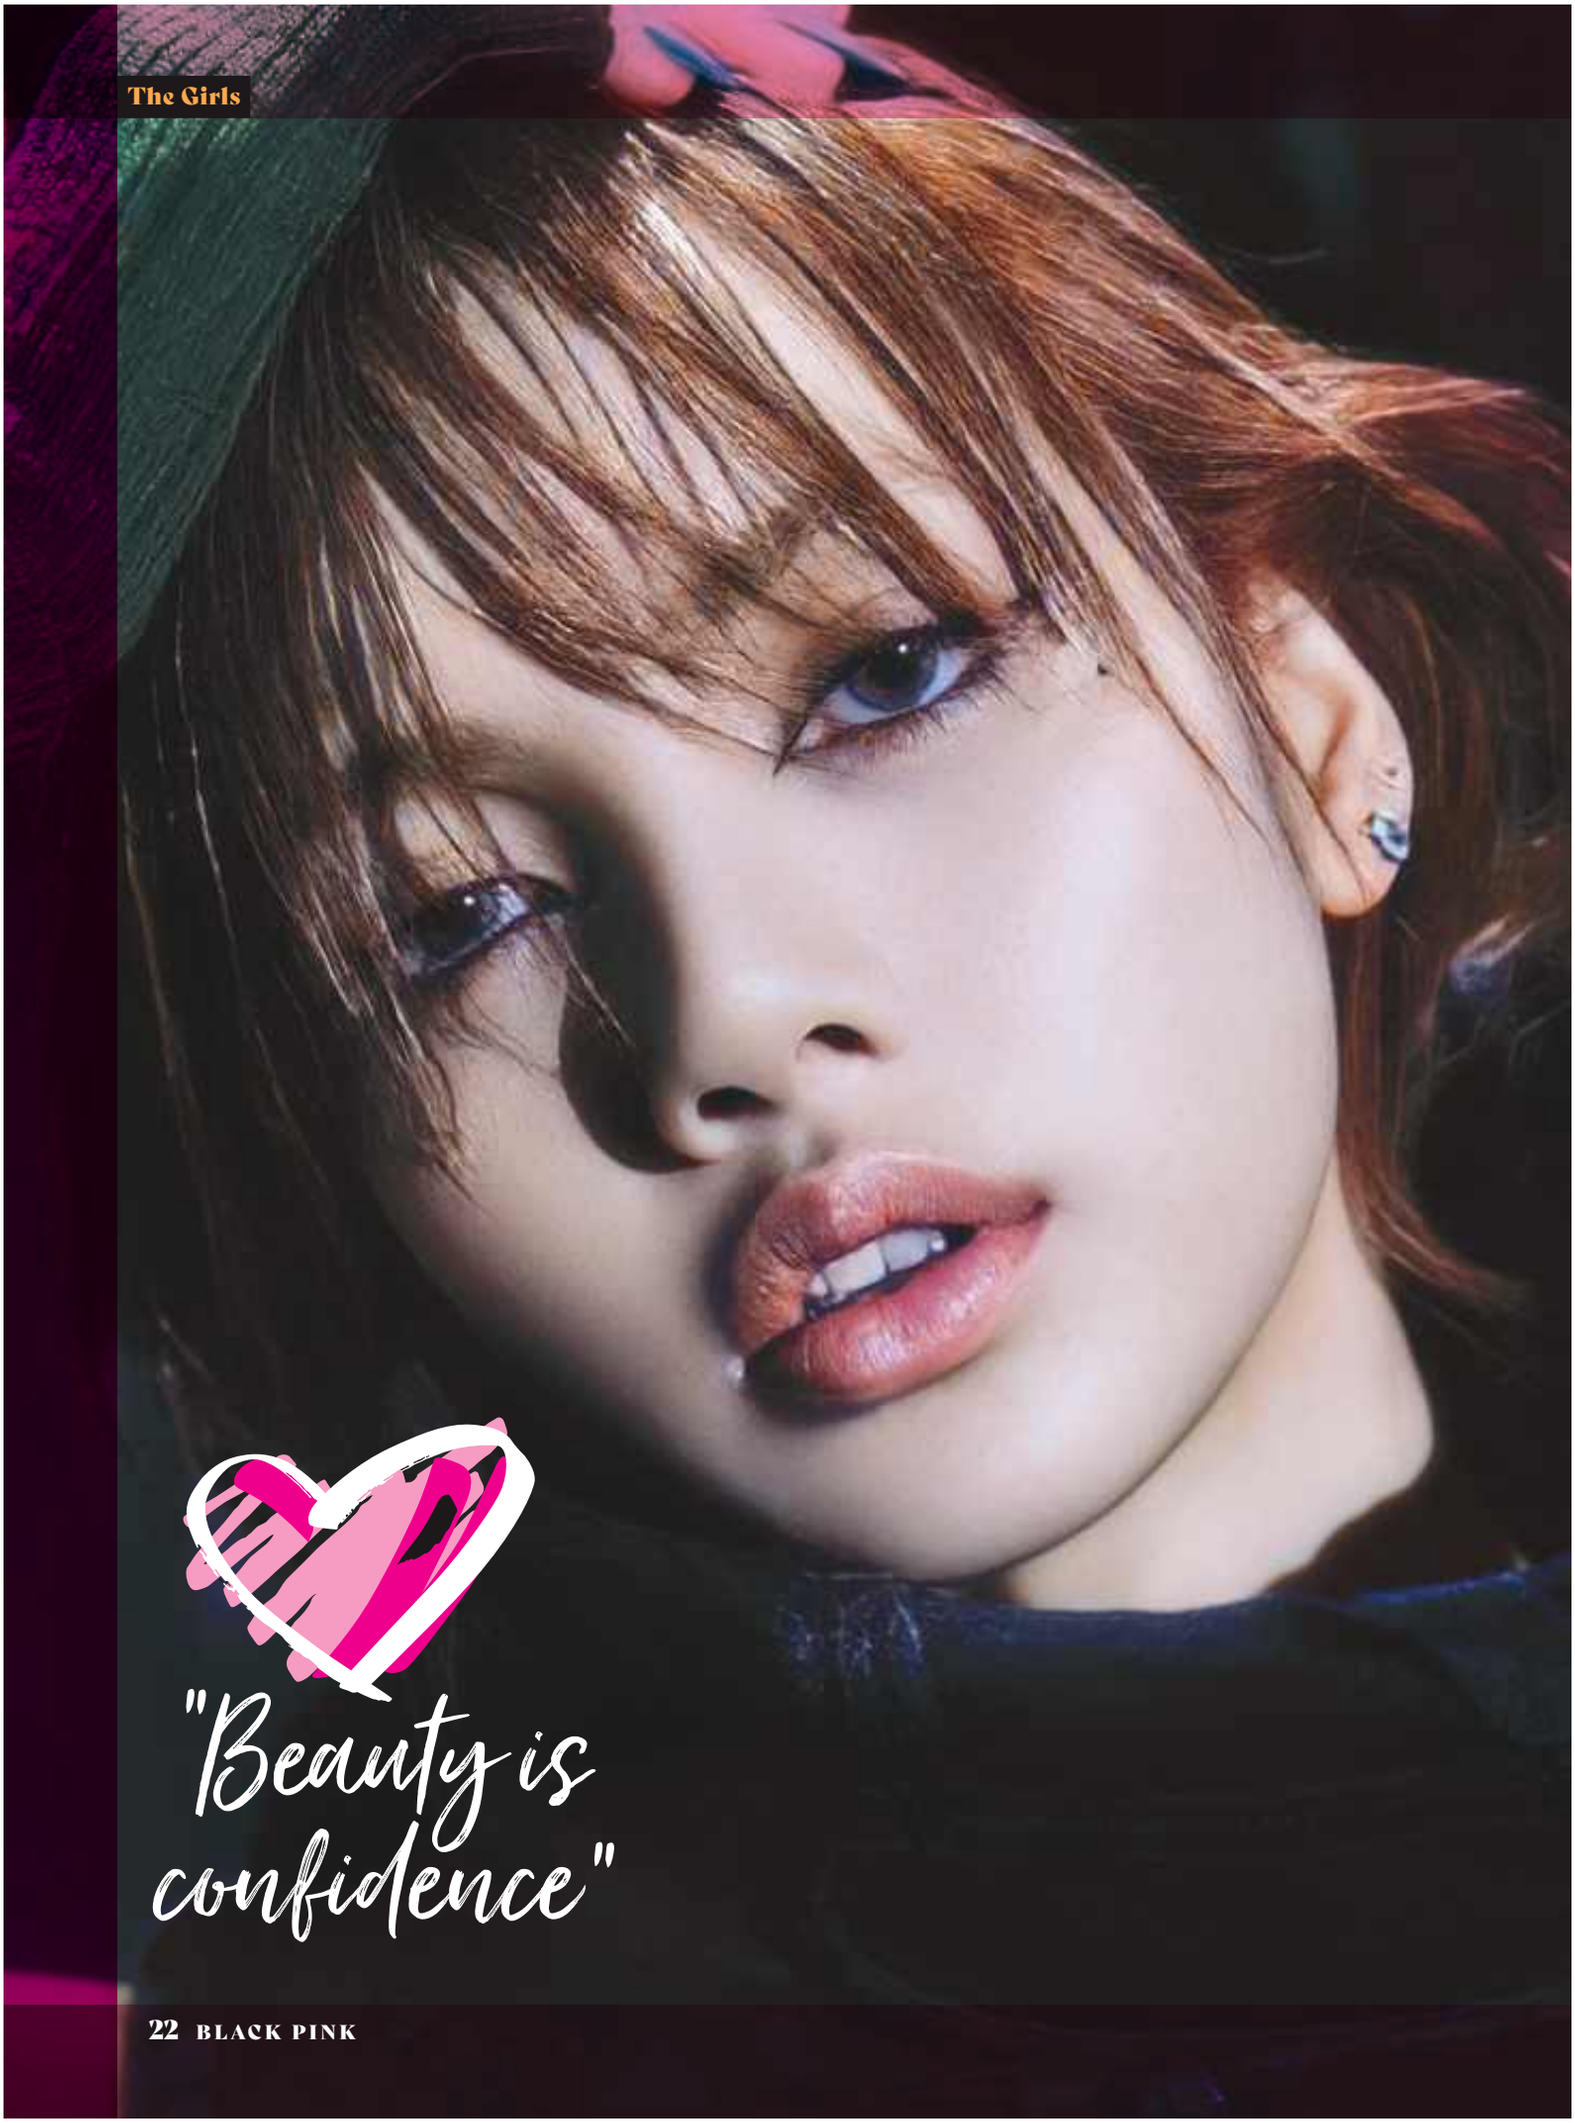

In December 2023, she began work on her first leading movie role in the big-screen adaptation of the webtoon Omniscient Reader's Viewpoint alongside Lee Min-ho, with whom she previously worked in a 2015 ad campaign for Samsonite Red. The eagerly anticipated film is set for release in 2025.

Lisa

How she went from a shy dancer to a world record-breaking star.

The K-pop audition process is notoriously cutthroat. For every idol hopeful who gets recruited by their dream agency, there are thousands who don't make the cut. But the odds have always been in Lisa's favor. After all, Lalisa Manobal was destined to be a star. Her name, a suggestion from a fortuneteller, quite literally means "the one who is praised."

Don't call it luck—call it talent. The dancer auditioned for YG Entertainment in her native Thailand when she was just 13, becoming the only one to advance out of 4,000 applicants. Her star power was palpable even as a teen.

Born in Thailand's Buriram province, Lisa grew up in Bangkok where she developed a lifelong passion for dance. She began dancing at age 4, competing regularly in—and winning—regional competitions. An only child, Lisa was soft-spoken and shy, preferring to express herself through movement. When the music started, she lit up the stage. She joined the local dance crew We Zaa Cool where she met her good friend and future GOT7 rapper BamBam.

Left: "I want to keep doing what I do within Blackpink," Lisa told Rolling Stone. "But personally, I have so many things I want to try." Right, from top: Her former teacher told Vice that ever since she was a kid, Lisa "has always been determined"; onstage at Coachella in April 2019.

SIP_242204_022-027.indd 23 3/13/24 12:28 PM

"We need to believe we'll become the one that we want to become."

Lisa

At 14, Lisa became YG's first Thai trainee, and she moved, alone, to Seoul, South Korea. At the time, Lisa barely understood Korean and it was difficult for her to adjust. She called her mom every day, begging to return home. "Our debut plans kept being pushed back and back, and I couldn't see the end of this," Lisa told Rolling Stone in 2022. "'When was this going to end? Like, when?! Do we have to get tested every single month?' When I told her, 'I want to quit,' my mom would say, 'Think about your situation. How many kids want to be in your place? If you give up and come home, do you think you can have a normal life? You're just going to try again.'"

Now, eight years into her career, Lisa has inspired a new generation of Thai trainees within the company to chase their dreams—BabyMonster's Pharita and Chiquita refer to her as their inspiration. In the 2020 Netflix documentary Blackpink: Light Up the Sky, Lisa confessed, "I'm a role model in Thailand, but I don't even know what kind of a musician I'll be."

From top: In 2023, Lisa became the first female K-pop artist to have 1 billion streams on Spotify with her megahit "Money"; "I really get so much energy from my fans in person at concerts," she told Elle Korea of the buzz she gets from performing live.

SIP_242204_022-027.indd 24 3/13/24 12:28 PM

Hair Today, Gone Tomorrow

As an idol, Lisa has sported many different hair colors through the years—from debut-era bleach blond to "How You Like That"-era magenta to "Lovesick Girls"-era's peekaboo highlights. But all of that transformation has come at a cost. In a 2022 vlog, Lisa shared that her short bob was the result of hair breakage caused by continuous bleaching. She's growing it back—slowly.

SIP_242204_022-027.indd 25 3/13/24 12:28 PM

Clockwise from top left: Lisa is the global perfume ambassador for Celine; she was spotted with Frédéric Arnault, heir to the LVMH empire, in Miami in February 2024; as a trainee, she taught herself how to apply makeup by watching YouTube videos; Lisa has released two watch collaborations with Bulgari.

SIP_242204_022-027.indd 26 3/13/24 12:28 PM

She figured it out upon the 2021 release of her solo debut, Lalisa, when she emerged as her own artist—sexy, confident and hungry. Her single "Lalisa" showcased the scope of her vision, while "Money" illuminated her innate swag and undefeated flow, becoming the first K-pop track by a solo artist to reach 1 billion streams on Spotify and setting a Guinness World Record.

Offstage, Blackpink's youngest member is taking the fashion world by storm as the global brand ambassador for luxury brands Bulgari and Celine—a position that brought her closer to LVMH heir Frédéric Arnault, to whom she's been romantically linked. As for her next big power move, in 2025, you'll be able to see Lisa make her acting debut in the third season of HBO's The White Lotus, which was filmed in her native Thailand.

From top: Her debut album, Lalisa, went triple platinum in South Korea; White Lotus creator Mike White told EW that Season 3 "is going to be longer, bigger, crazier."

Jennie

The independent rapper and singer is taking control of her solo career.

When Jennie Kim burst onto the K-pop scene in 2016 and declared, "The girl you've been hearing about, that's me, Jennie," an It girl was born.

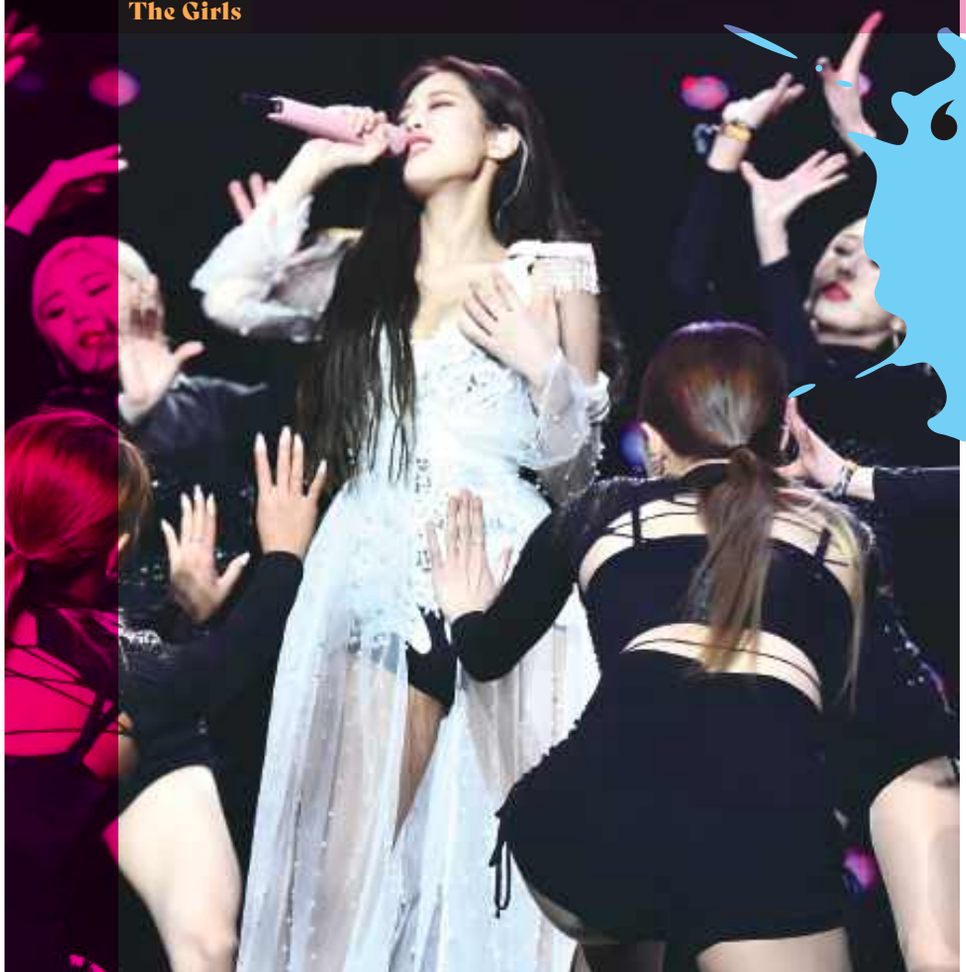

Everything Jennie does makes headlines, from her rumored romances with some of Korea's most eligible bachelors (including EXO's Kai and BTS crooner V) to her iconic airport looks. And her seismic influence across K-pop, fashion and the global entertainment industry only continues to grow.

Born in Anyang just outside of Seoul, South Korea, Jennie spent her formative years in Auckland, New Zealand, living with a home-stay family as a study-abroad student for five years. "In retrospect, that life in New Zealand made me tougher," Jennie told Rolling Stone in 2022. "It was sad to be away from my family, but I was so happy to be there."

As a kid, she was drawn to dressing up. She liked trying things on: clothes, hobbies and various future scenarios. Jennie moved back to Seoul in 2010 to pursue her dream of becoming an idol—a career in which you're constantly trying new concepts and transforming—and she quickly landed at YG Entertainment, her dream agency. Jennie trained for six years before finally debuting in Blackpink as the group's sassy main rapper, a title she says she has since outgrown.

"I came to realize that there's a big side of me inside that loves to sing, but I actually never had the chance to really explore that as a trainee because I got told that I should be a rapper," she revealed in a 2023 episode of the Dua Lipa: At Your

"When creating a new visual with a brand I like, I feel a different type of accomplishment and pride than when working on music," she told Vogue Korea.

In the Driver's Seat

Jennie is taking her solo career into her own hands! Since deciding not to renew her exclusive artist contract with YG in late 2023, Jennie launched her own company called Odd Atelier, or OA for short. She describes it as a "space that aims to create new things that attract attention in a different way from what is usual or expected."

Service podcast. As a rapper, she's feisty and charismatic; as a singer, she's softer and more down to earth. Her duality is best demonstrated in her solo work. Jennie dropped her first single—aptly titled "Solo," a confident kiss-off to a loser ex—in 2018, and followed it up with the dazzling "You & Me" in 2023.

In contrast to her bombastic pop-star alter ego, Jennie

Top right: Jennie dropped solo singles in 2018 and 2023 and told Korea JoongAng Daily that she has "unique" new music in the works. Clockwise from top left: Endorsement deals with brands like Chanel have boosted her net worth to a reported $10 million; Jennie with The Idol co-stars Lily-Rose Depp and Troye Sivan; she released a capsule collection for Calvin Klein in 2023.

sometimes struggles to overcome her shyness, telling Rolling Stone in 2022, "When I was a trainee, I often heard, 'Why does Jennie always look pissed?' At the time, that hurt my feelings. I'm not pissed. I'm just shy in front of other people."

However, exploring new creative outlets, like acting, is helping her break out of her shell. Jennie made her acting debut in the controversial 2023 HBO series The Idol, also starring Lily-Rose Depp, The Weeknd and Troye Sivan. Despite the drama's mixed reviews, critics praised Jennie's performance as cunning backup dancer Dyanne.

But her biggest love has always been fashion. Jennie has been an ambassador for Chanel since 2017, earning the nickname "the Human Chanel" from fans. She's furthered her interest in fashion by designing capsule collections for Calvin Klein and Korean eyewear brand Gentle Monster. As one of Karl Lagerfeld's last handpicked muses for the house of Chanel, Jennie made her Met Gala debut in 2023, which honored the late designer.

A perfectionist, Jennie is adding one more job title to her resume this year: business mogul. She launched her creative agency, Odd Atelier, and plans on managing her own solo activities. But Blackpink is still her priority, as she told Rolling Stone, "Blackpink, to me, is more than whether we do music or not. It's a part of my family."

Rosé

The group's guitar-playing dreamer finds healing in making music.

As Blackpink's resident rock star, no one embodies the artistic soul of a singer-songwriter more than Rosé.

In one of the more revealing scenes of the 2020 Netflix documentary Blackpink: Light Up the Sky, Rosé admitted that she yearned for her trainee years. "Back then we were surrounded by music all the time," she said. "But these days we've got a lot of work, so I actually have to make time for [music]." That's why, she revealed, she stays up until the morning hours working on her music. "It's always when I'm supposed to be sleeping!"

Born in New Zealand to Korean parents and raised in Melbourne, Australia, Roseanne Chaeyoung Park started playing the piano at an early age—first, at the request of her mother, and then, out of boredom. She didn't have a lot of friends growing up, so she turned to the piano to occupy her time. It ultimately led to an interest in singing and songwriting, with Jennie citing Taylor Swift as one of Rosé's biggest influences.

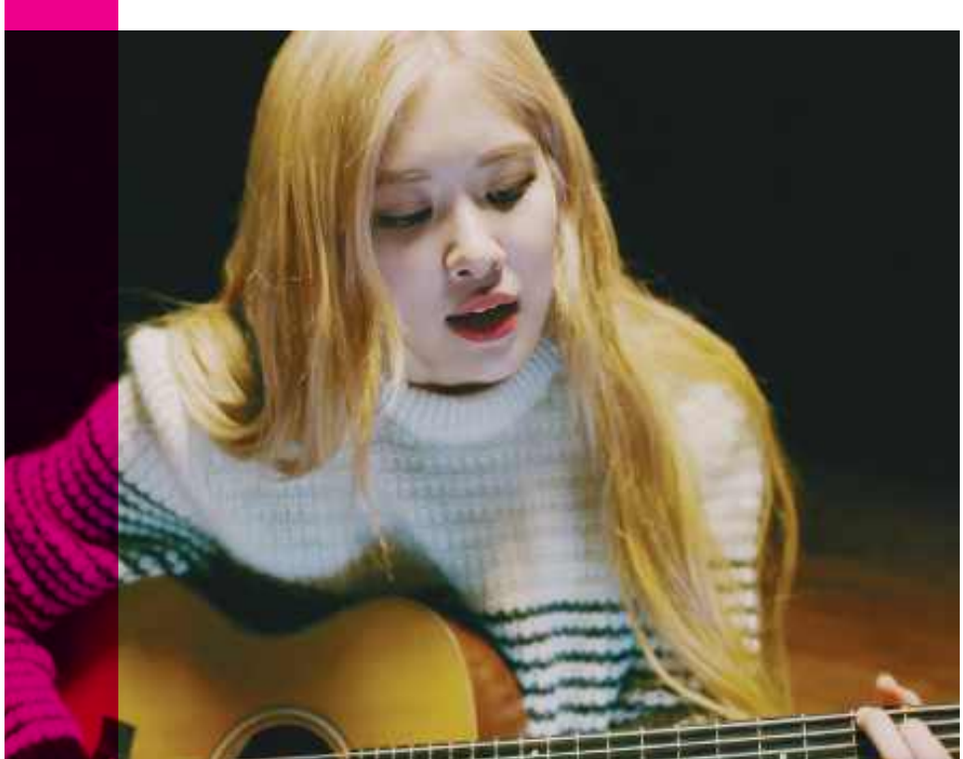

Left: "I'm a performer. As soon as I get onstage, I think it's my job to show different energy than usual," Rosé told Elle Korea. Right, from top: She marked her birthday in 2023 by sharing throwback pics on Instagram; Rosé told GQ Korea that headlining Coachella in 2023 was "a longtime dream."

SIP_242204_034-039.indd 35 3/13/24 12:28 PM

"Everybody's a chameleon, everybody can be all sorts of colors." Rosé

In 2012, the aspiring idol passed YG Entertainment's Sydney auditions and booked a one-way ticket to Seoul, South Korea, at the age of 16 with her guitar strapped on her back. Rosé was the last member of Blackpink to join the company, quickly bonding with Jennie, who could also speak English. In a 2016 livestream, Jennie recalled connecting with her future band mate. "It was the first time a member who could play the guitar joined, so I stayed up all night asking her to play for me."

Rosé's talent was immediately apparent. As a young trainee, she was the mystery, honey-voiced singer featured on G-Dragon's "Without You" off the Big Bang superstar's seminal 2012 solo album, One of a Kind.

For Rosé, music comes first. "It starts with my love for music; that's what makes me happy," she told Rolling Stone in 2022. "It's like a sense of...healing. It's something that calms me down during the day, it stops me from thinking." Her debut solo project, R, released in 2021, is deeply self-reflective. Her single "On the Ground" finds Rosé looking for answers in all the wrong places. The song topped Billboard's Global 200 and Global 200 Excl. U.S. charts, making her the first K-pop soloist to do so.

Yet, the life of an idol is never easy, especially in an industry that demands perfection, and Rosé has been open about her insecurities. In November 2023, she attended a mental health awareness event hosted by U.S. first lady Jill Biden.

This page, from top: "I feel more bold than usual [when I am onstage]. I feel like I have become a strong and cool hero in a movie. Sometimes it's fun to become a new character that's not me," she told Elle Korea of performing live; Rosé revealed her singer-songwriter soul in the 2020 Netflix documentary Blackpink: Light Up the Sky. "Singing is kind of stress relief," she said of the late nights she spends working on music.

Insta-Famous Hank

Rosie's rescue pup, Hank, is Instagram famous with more than 5 million followers. When she's busy fulfilling her international pop star duties, Rosé's mom takes care of Hank—and manages his account. But all of that time with his grandma has shifted the doggo's loyalties. In 2021, Rosé told the Zach Sang Show, "It breaks my heart the most these days when he likes my mom over me."

SIP_242204_034-039.indd 37 3/13/24 12:28 PM

"I do feel like some of the things I do are just never enough, and no matter how hard I work on something, there's always gonna be somebody who has their own opinion or who enjoys taking control of the narrative," she said "And so that comes to me as a sense of loneliness."

It's easy to look at Rosé—a successful pop star, an ambassador for luxury brands like Yves Saint Clockwise from top left: At a 2023 mental health awareness event with first lady Jill Biden, Rosé said famous people grapple with the same emotional struggles as everyone else; she co-wrote the two songs on her single album, R; "She is Saint Laurent in the way she lives, in the way she takes charge of how she dresses, in her way of liberating herself from the crowd," the brand's creative director, Anthony Vaccarello, said of Rosé; she has become a fixture at Paris Fashion Week since attending her first YSL show in 2019; Rosé became a global ambassador for Tiffany & Co. in 2021.

SIP_242204_034-039.indd 38 3/13/24 12:28 PM

Laurent and Tiffany & Co.—and think she's the epitome of perfection. And that's an image she'd very much like to dismantle. "In the past, if I felt nervous, it'd burden me so much," she told Rolling Stone. "But to be nervous about something, to really care about something, is what makes life so interesting and fun." ♫

How You Like That

We're charting Blackpink's meteoric rise to the top, from their memorable debut to shutting down Coachella with a historic headlining performance—and beyond.

2016

1 | The Introduction

The members of Blackpink were introduced to the public in June 2016, starting with Jennie, who had trained for nearly six years, followed by Lisa, YG Entertainment's first Thai artist, then Jisoo, who trained for five years, and finally, Rosé, the last member to join the company. Their name, Blackpink, is a mixture of their tough, girl-crush side ("black") and their girlie, flirty side ("pink").

2 | At Square One

The Pinks dropped their debut single album, Square One, on Aug. 8, 2016, featuring dual singles "Boombayah" and "Whistle." The project reached No. 1 on iTunes' album chart within two days of its release, setting a new record for a rookie Korean girl group. "Whistle" peaked at No. 1 on South Korea's Gaon Digital Chart, while "Boombayah" reached No. 7.

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 40 3/13/24 12:30 PM

3 | Their First Win

For any K-pop act, a win on a weekly music program is a significant career milestone, and Blackpink achieved it in just 14 days. They made their music show debut on SBS' Inkigayo on Aug. 14, 2016. Two weeks later, "Whistle" took home first place on the same music program. Jennie was so overcome with emotion that she burst into tears during the encore performance.

4 | Following Up With Square Two

Following the commercial success of their debut, monster rookies Blackpink came back with Square Two on Nov. 1, 2016, a single album consisting of the tracks "Playing with Fire" and "Stay." "Playing with Fire" burned up the charts, becoming Blackpink's second single to reach No. 1 on Billboard's World Digital Song Sales chart and peaking at No. 3 in South Korea.

5 | Totally Honored

By the end of 2016, the group had racked up several coveted rookie awards, including the Rookie Singer Award at the Asia Artist Awards, Best of Next Female Artist and Best Music Video (for "Whistle") at the Mnet Asian Music Awards, and Best New Artist at the Melon Music Awards. Talk about a winning streak! Billboard even named Blackpink one of the best new K-pop acts of the year.

2017

6 | Blinks Are Born

On Jan. 17, 2017, Blackpink unveiled their fan club name—Blink, a portmanteau of the words "black" and "pink," giving an official name to one of today's most powerful online fandoms. In a handwritten message to Blinks, Rosé wrote, "Let's make a lot of warm and fun memories in the future."

7 | Smashing Records

When Blackpink dropped the music video for their digital single "As if It's Your Last" in June 2017, Blinks smashed that "like" button on YouTube. The pink-hued visual broke the record for the most-liked music video by a Korean girl group on the platform, and it set a new record for the most-viewed K-pop group music video in the first 24 hours at the time of its release.

8 | Making It Big in Japan

They made their Japanese debut with their self-titled EP on Aug. 30, 2017, following a wildly successful first showcase at Nippon Budokan in Tokyo on July 20. More than 14,000 fans attended the exclusive event. Blackpink topped the Oricon Albums Chart, making the Pinks only the third foreign artist to top the chart with their debut release.

2018

9 | Welcome to Blackpink House

Forget the Barbie Dreamhouse. Blackpink launched their first reality series, Blackpink House, on YouTube in January 2018. The concept was simple: Follow the members of Blackpink during their downtime, living and playing together in a perfect, pink dream house in the middle of Seoul, South Korea. Pink doors, pink roof tiles and pink interiors—Blackpink House was more than a vacation for the group, it was a lifestyle.

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 42 3/13/24 12:30 PM

10 | A Hot 100 Debut

On June 15, 2018, Blackpink released Square Up, their first Korean-language EP. Its powerful lead single "Ddu-Du Ddu-Du" became a global hit, reaching No. 1 on the digital charts in South Korea and peaking at No. 55 on Billboard's Hot 100 in the U.S., surpassing the Wonder Girls' nine-year record to become the highest-charting track by a Korean girl group. The EP also debuted at No. 40 on the Billboard 200—their first entry on the chart but hardly their last.

11 | A Superstar Collaboration

Pop star Dua Lipa (center) teamed up with Blackpink for "Kiss and Make Up," a dance track on the deluxe edition of her eponymous debut album. Released in October 2018, the collab scored Blackpink their first Top 40 entry on the UK Singles Chart and their second entry on the Hot 100. Lipa would later join the girls onstage at the Newark, New Jersey, stop of their In Your Area World Tour in 2019 to perform the track.

12 | First U.S. TV Appearance

The Pinks made their American television debut performing "Ddu-Du Ddu-Du" on The Late Show With Stephen Colbert on Feb. 12, 2019—the same day they announced their first U.S. tour. Host Stephen Colbert (above) tweeted a selfie with the girls, writing, "Hope my BLACKPINK audition went okay!" Meanwhile, the hashtag #BLACKPINKonLSSC trended worldwide with one fan writing, "Jennie makes rapping in 63 syllables in 8 seconds sound so fooking EASY."

13 | Let's Kill These Charts

Blackpink released their second Korean-language EP, Kill This Love, on April 4, 2019. It didn't take long for its explosive title track to become the group's first Top 50 hit on the Billboard Hot 100, and its Lara Croft-esque music video accumulated more than 56 million views in the first 24 hours, breaking yet another record.

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 43 3/13/24 12:30 PM

14 | Making Coachella History

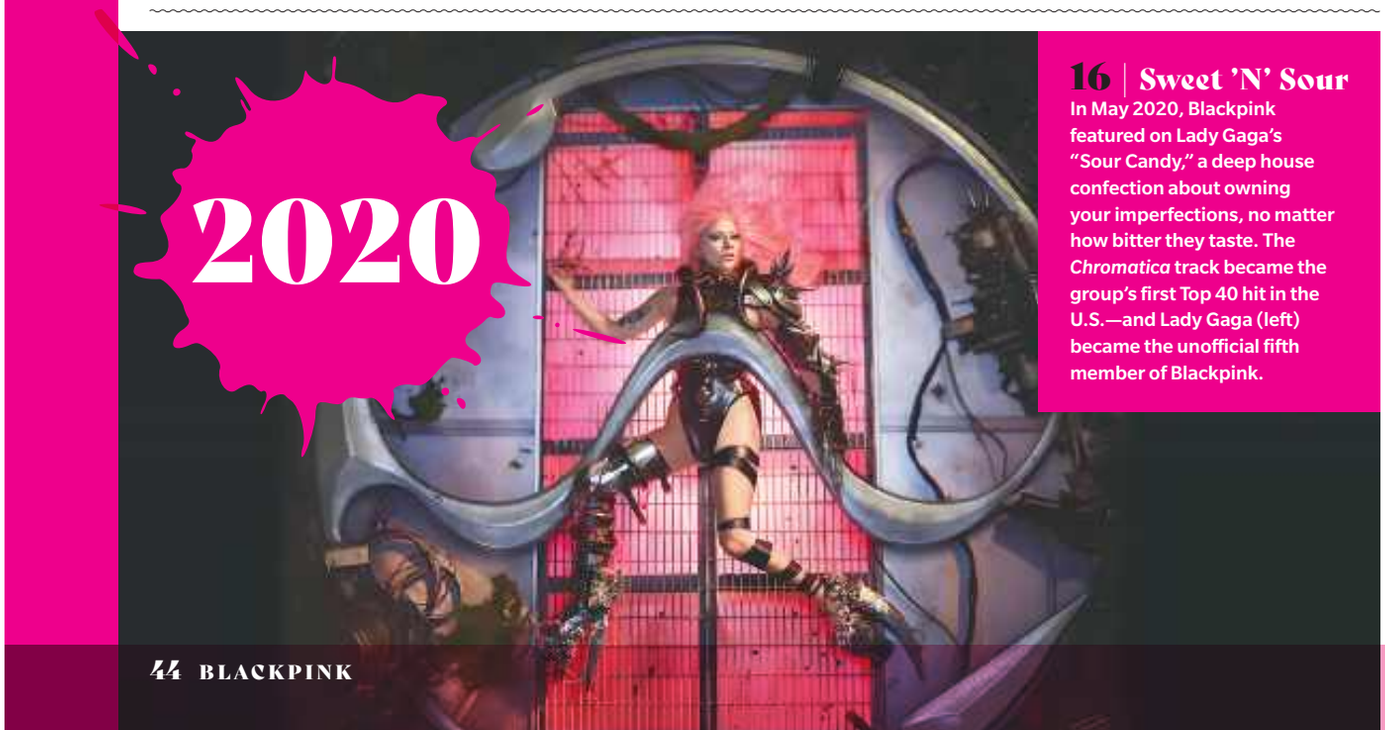

The California desert is hot, but in April 2019, nothing was more scorching than Blackpink taking the Coachella stage to become the first K-pop girl group to ever play a U.S. festival. Blackpink fever hit the fest like a tidal wave, bringing together Blinks and celebs like Ariana Grande, Jaden Smith and Khalid to celebrate the fierce foursome and watch their fiery 11-song set. Since Blackpink's epic performance, three more K-pop girl groups have performed at the legendary festival—2NE1 and Aespa in 2022, and Le Sserafim in 2024.

15 | Going Gold

"Ddu-Du Ddu-Du" was a mega-hit for Blackpink, bringing them even more global recognition. The song earned a gold record in the U.S. in August 2019, with Blackpink officially becoming the first K-pop girl group to get an album certification from the Recording Industry Association of America.

2020

16 | Sweet 'N' Sour

In May 2020, Blackpink featured on Lady Gaga's "Sour Candy," a deep house confection about owning your imperfections, no matter how bitter they taste. The Chromatica track became the group's first Top 40 hit in the U.S.—and Lady Gaga (left) became the unofficial fifth member of Blackpink.

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 44 3/13/24 12:30 PM

17 | Having Fun 24/365

In the leadup to their next release, the Pinks launched 24/365 With Blackpink in June 2020, a reality series that not only offered Blinks an exclusive glimpse into their forthcoming music and visuals, but also gave the girls the opportunity to show off their more comedic sides—playing games, doing activities and even attending "Blackpink School." (Fun fact: Lisa suggested the show's name.)

18 | It's A Bird...It's A Plane...It's Blackpink!

After more than a year without new music, Blackpink arrived with another banger. "How You Like That" dropped on June 26, 2020, as the prerelease single off their debut studio album. The bombastic track was a commercial success, thanks in part to its squelchy synths, euphoric coda and the Pinks' sheer audacity—and it won the group their first MTV VMA for Song of the Summer.

19 | A Chilly Treat

Blinks and Selenators were treated to a sweet collab between their favorite girls. Blackpink and Selena Gomez's "Ice Cream," released on Aug. 28, 2020, peaked at No. 13 on the Hot 100, becoming their highest entry on the chart. Gomez celebrated by releasing a flavor of Serendipity ice cream called Cookies & Cream Remix, made with—what else?—pink vanilla.

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 45 3/13/24 12:30 PM

20 | Their First Studio Album

Blackpink released their first studio album, appropriately titled The Album, on Oct. 2, 2020, more than four years after their debut. With eight songs in total, The Album contained previous singles "How You Like That" and "Ice Cream," as well as PG-13 Cardi B collab "Bet You Wanna" and the heartbreak anthem—and lead single—"Lovesick Girls." But the highlight of the LP for many was the sassy kiss-off track "Pretty Savage."

21 | Virtually Taking Over

During the press tour for The Album, Blackpink dominated American television with appearances on Good Morning America (below) and Jimmy Kimmel Live! in October 2020. Although the Pinks had to perform virtually due to COVID-19 restrictions, that didn't stop them from setting the stage, and screens, ablaze with "Lovesick Girls."

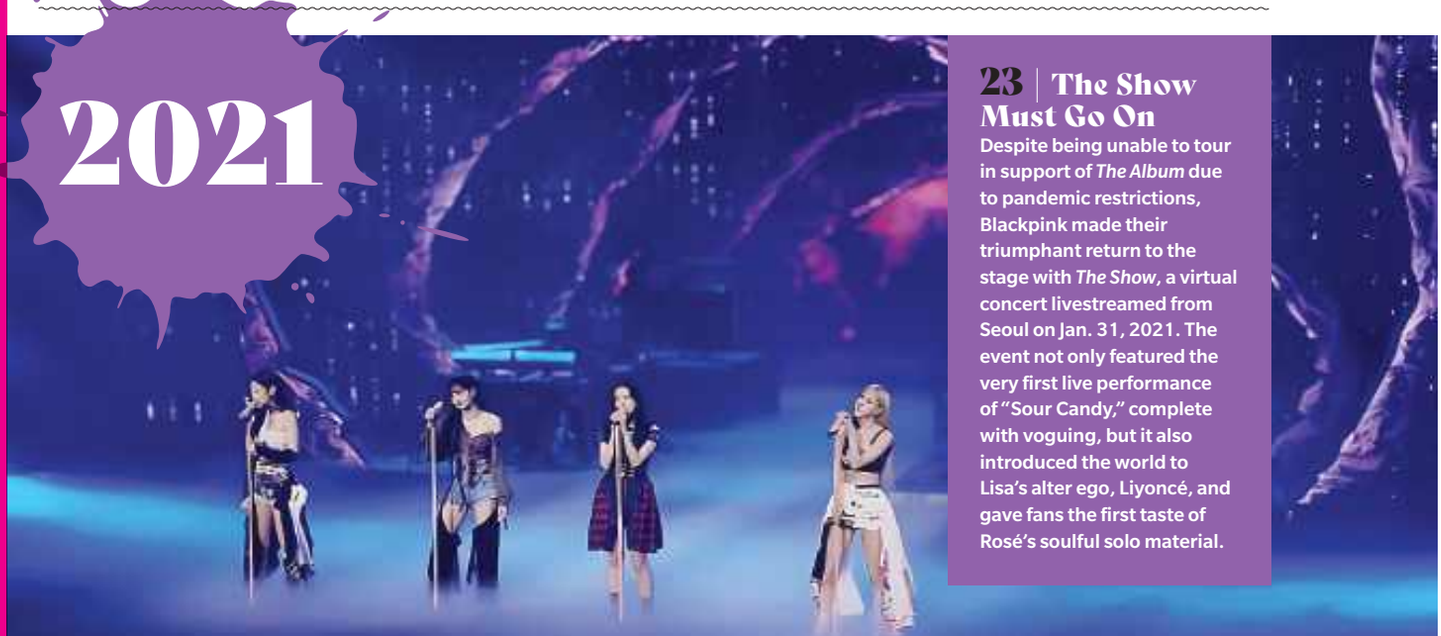

22 | Showing a New Side

Helmed by Korean American director Caroline Suh, the documentary Blackpink: Light Up the Sky premiered on Netflix on Oct. 14, 2020. Over its 79 minutes, Jisoo, Jennie, Rosé and Lisa shed the "pretty savage" personas they project through Blackpink to reveal themselves as relatable 20-somethings with vulnerabilities and ambitions far beyond the stage.

2021

23 | The Show Must Go On

Despite being unable to tour in support of The Album due to pandemic restrictions, Blackpink made their triumphant return to the stage with The Show, a virtual concert livestreamed from Seoul on Jan. 31, 2021. The event not only featured the very first live performance of "Sour Candy," complete with voguing, but it also introduced the world to Lisa's alter ego, Liyoncé, and gave fans the first taste of Rosé's soulful solo material.

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 46 3/13/24 12:30 PM

24 | On the Big Screen

Combining footage from The Show and the In Your Area World Tour, August 2021's Blackpink: The Movie captured the sheer spectacle of a Blackpink concert, giving Blinks front-row access to showstopping performances of "Kill This Love," "Ddu-du Ddu-du" and so much more. The members also reflected on their journey in brief interview segments, during which Jisoo revealed the group's motto: "Let's trust the four of us and have fun."

25 | A Memorable VMAs Debut

Arriving in a cloud of pink, Blackpink performed their single "Pink Venom" at the MTV VMAs on Aug. 28, 2022, marking the group's U.S. award show debut. Notably, Taylor Swift was seen dancing and singing along in the audience; "Pink Venom" features a fun callback to her hit "Look What You Made Me Do." Blackpink took home the Moon Person for Best Metaverse Performance earlier in the night, and Lisa made history as the first Korean soloist to win the VMA for Best K-pop for her electric self-titled track, "Lalisa."

26 | Topping the Charts

Blackpink made history when Born Pink—their second full-length album, which dropped on Sept. 16, 2022—debuted at No. 1 on the Billboard 200 in the U.S. The Pinks became the first Korean girl group to do so, opening the door for newbies NewJeans to score a No. 1 the following year. Born Pink was mostly a commercial and critical success, with Rolling Stone proclaiming it "the landmark pop album Blackpink were born to make."

27 | World Domination

Blackpink kicked off the Born Pink World Tour in Seoul on Oct. 15, 2022, taking the Pinks across cities in North America and Europe before announcing a summer encore stadium tour in 2023—making them the first K-pop girl group to perform in a stadium in Europe, to play Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles and to sell out back-to-back shows at New Jersey's MetLife Stadium (a record they share with Beyoncé and Taylor Swift, NBD).

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 47 3/13/24 12:30 PM

28 | A Career-Defining Performance

As the first girl group to headline Coachella, Blackpink had a lot to prove to naysayers—and they did so in their signature boombayah-stic style. They emerged onstage in gorgeous hanbok—traditional Korean garb—before revealing their custom black-and-pink Dolce & Gabbana outfits underneath. An estimated 125,000 people watched Blackpink's 18-song set at Coachella on April 15, 2023, solidifying their place in history as the biggest girl group in the world.

29 | Karaoke Stars

In April 2023, Blackpink appeared on James Corden's Carpool Karaoke, singing along to their biggest hits, including "How You Like That," in addition to some beloved girl group bangers, from TLC's "No Scrubs" to Spice Girls' "Wannabe."

30 | Leveling Up

Blackpink: The Game launched in May 2023. Made for fans, The Game features puzzle quests and allows players to assume the role of Blackpink's manager, giving Blinks an inside look at the process of becoming Blackpink. The group released "The Girls," a feisty, bass-boosted promotional single for The Game, in August.

SIP_242204_040-049.indd 48 3/13/24 12:30 PM

31 | A Major Win

After storming the stage as VMA performers in 2022, Blackpink didn't attend the show in September 2023 but still took home one of the most coveted awards: Group of the Year. They were only the second girl group to win the award, after TLC in 1999. For those keeping score, that's their fourth Moon Person trophy.

32 | Total Immersion

Blackpink brought their Born Pink show to the metaverse with Blackpink: A VR Encore, a free concert made for virtual reality in partnership with Meta. The show was custom-captured and produced for VR at the band's Born Pink World Tour finale at the Gocheok Sky Dome in Seoul and premiered in Meta's Horizon Worlds Music Valley on Dec. 26, 2023.

2024

LLOUD's official account on X (formerly known as Twitter) described the agency as "a platform dedicated to pushing boundaries and breaking barriers in the realm of music and entertainment."

33 | The Next Chapter

In late 2023, Blackpink signed a new contract with YG Entertainment for their activities as a group. However, all four members decided to pursue new solo opportunities outside of the company. Jennie (center) founded the creative agency OA (Odd Atelier) to manage her career, while Jisoo (right) set up an agency with her brother called Blissoo. Lisa (far left) announced the creation of her artist management company, LLOUD, in February 2024, but as of press time, Rosé is still a free agent.

Jisoo

A Demure Debut

For one of her first public appearances at the 2016 Melon Music Awards, Jisoo opted for a cherry-red A-line miniskirt and a white ruffled blouse. But her heart-shaped earrings and a blinged-out bolo tie stole the show.

Adding an Edge

She paired a layered black leather belt with a feminine blue paisley minidress at the Gaon Chart K-pop Music Awards in February 2017. But soon Jisoo's style would take a more sophisticated turn.

Sheer Excellence

At the 2018 opening of Adekuver's flagship store in Seoul, South Korea, she elevated a basic black look with a sexy, sheer blouse and feminine embellishments like ruffles and bows.

It's no surprise that the biggest luxury brands are clamoring to work with Blackpink. They bring it when it comes to style. Take a look back at their fashion evolution.

A Grecian Goddess

Jisoo caused a social media frenzy—for Blinks, fashionistas and classics professors alike—in this minidress inspired by Greek goddess Athena ahead of the Dior show at Paris Fashion Week in September 2021.

A Total Betty

It would be easy to compare this minidress from Dior to Cher Horowitz's iconic skirt suit in Clueless, but Jisoo put a twist on it at Paris Fashion Week in March 2022, wearing it over a collared button-front shirt with a black tie.

Epitome of Elegance

A Dior ambassador since 2021, she wore the brand at the Lady Dior Celebration in Seoul in September 2023. The fashion house declared that Jisoo embodies Dior's "modernity and passionate creativity."

Jennie

Plaid Prepster

The future It girl wore a tartan miniskirt, black velvet blazer and a big, red bow at the Melon Music Awards in November 2016. The statement earrings made this prep school outfit look more red-carpet ready.

Classic With a Twist

Handpicked by the late Karl Lagerfeld as one of Chanel's muses, Jennie rocked the luxury brand's signature blazer as a minidress at the Mademoiselle Privé exhibition in Seoul in June 2017.

Mellow Yellow

She looked adorable in pastel lemon at the launch of Pharrell Williams' capsule collection for Chanel in Seoul in March 2019. The look was a two-piece outfit, but Jennie skipped the skirt to showcase her legs.

The Human Chanel

She made her Met Gala debut in May 2023 in a '90s vintage cocktail dress from Chanel, complete with opera gloves, a black choker,and the house's signature camellia flower in her hair.

A Perfect Princess

Jennie attended a photo call for The Idol at the Cannes Film Festival in May 2023 in an elegant tea-length ShuShu/Tong dress, tying her long braid with big black-satin bows and wearing Chanel earrings.

Nearly Nude

Proving you don't need bold colors to make a statement, she wore a bodycon skin-tone gown by Alex Perry with long gloves at the Love Your W event in Seoul in November 2023, opting for natural hair and makeup.

Rosé

Mesh & Leather

Even as a rookie, Rosé liked a little edge. At the 2016 Asia Artist Awards, she stepped onto one of her first red carpets in a black mesh-collar blouse, a tribal-print miniskirt, and a pair of leather thigh-high boots.

True Blue

Rosé ditched the black for a sweet blue dress at a Mulberry event in Seoul in September 2018. She credits her mom with inspiring her love of fashion, calling her "a boss with her dark red lipstick and perfectly styled hair."

Hard & Soft

She took a floral-print dress and made it her own at the SBS Gayo Daejeon Battle of the Bands in December 2018, amping up the drama by topping the feminine style with a sleek leather bustier.

The Main Event

For her first Met Gala in September 2021, the YSL Saint Laurent global ambassador wore an LBD from the luxury fashion house and amped up the drama with icy statement earrings and a large floral choker.

Statuesque Glamour

With this look, you can see why YSL chose Rosé as its first house ambassador in 59 years. She attended the LACMA Art & Film Gala in LA in November 2022 in a Saint Laurent gown with a wraparound bodice and hood.

Plaid & Pants

For Saint Laurent's Paris Fashion Week show in September 2023, Rosé paired sleek cigarette pants and a billowing blouse with a long train. She completed the 1940s-inspired look with oversize gold earrings.

Pop Star Pink

Lisa stood out from the crowd in a bold sequined shirt, leather hot pants, chunky accessories, thigh-high black boots and pink lipstick at the Golden Disk Awards in January 2017.

Floral Business

Never one to shy away from color, Lisa attended a Mulberry event in Seoul in 2018 in a floral-printed blouse tucked into high-waisted mustard pants. And her signature blunt bangs were perfectly pressed.

Pretty in Polka Dots

For Lisa, there's no such thing as too many prints. Take, for example, this red-and-white polka-dot dress and floral Michael Kors handbag combo from New York Fashion Week in September 2018.

She attended Bulgari's Serpenti Seduttori 2019 launch event in Seoul in a one-shoulder Kimhekim minidress that put a unique spin on a classic pinstripe suit jacket.

Bridal Vibes

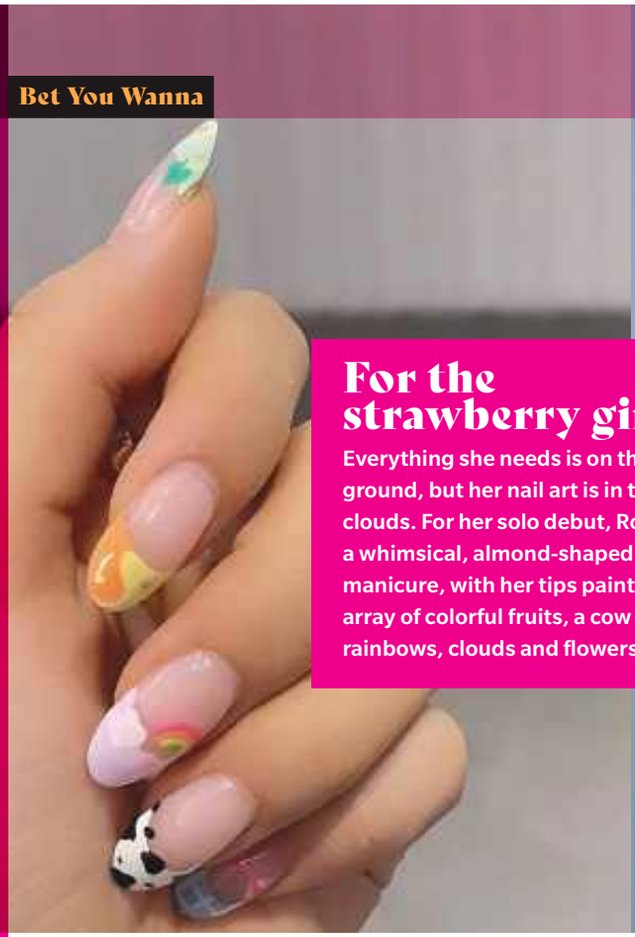

Lisa wore a corseted Vivienne Westwood bridal gown at the Bulgari Aurora Awards in October 2022. She accentuated the low neckline with a diamond, ruby and gold Bulgari Serpenti necklace.

Trendsetter

Not everyone can team striped socks with sandals and make it fashion, but Lisa did just that at a Celine event in Seoul in March 2023. She paired her Celine cropped jacket and miniskirt with a cute topknot.

For the strawberry girls

Everything she needs is on the ground, but her nail art is in the clouds. For her solo debut, Rosé chose a whimsical, almond-shaped French manicure, with her tips painted an array of colorful fruits, a cow print, rainbows, clouds and flowers.

Nail Inspo

The Pinks complete their outfits with matching manicures. Here are some of our favorite designs.

For the anime lovers

The cover art for Jennie's second single "You & Me" was designed by Naoko Takeuchi, the creator of Sailor Moon. In homage to the beloved manga, nail artist Park Eunkyung, also known as Unistella, made this red-hot set with twinkling anime eyes on the thumbs.

For the Hello Kitty fans

Jisoo's love of Hello Kitty is well known among Blinks, and over the years she's sported many nail sets inspired by the Sanrio character. This one—with its glitter, pink hearts and Hello Kitty stickers—is just too cute.

For the minimalists

Rosé loves a simple French mani, and this look adds some edge to an otherwise understated style. Leave it to Rosé to be a little bit rock 'n' roll with a style that proves you don't need long nail extensions.

For the crystal enthusiasts

The Born Pink era manifested many things for Jisoo, including this crystalline nail set packed with chunky gems over a translucent gray base. Talk about showstopping sparkles! "I have always believed that nail art should be thought of as something to be worn. Just like clothes or shoes," nail artist Park told L'Officiel.

For the lace lovers

Jennie's textured red lace press-on nails perfectly matched her leopard-print-and-lace look in the "Pink Venom" music video.

For those who play "Shut Down" on repeat

In the music video for "Shut Down," Jennie was spotted repping her two favorite colors with these hand-painted, coffin-shaped graffiti nails. It was a mani masterpiece.

For the ice queens

Of the many nail designs worn in the "Pink Venom" video, Jisoo's shattered-glass set—one of the looks nail tech Park is best known for—shines the brightest. It gives the effect of mother-of-pearl lacquerware and is mostly accomplished by layering stickers on the nail. "My motto is to try doing things that seem impossible," Park told Hypebae.

SIP_242204_058-061.indd 60 3/13/24 12:31 PM

For the trendy Blinks

Always one to put her own unique spin on a trend, Lisa opted for these colorful aura nails with a radiant twist, adding small gems and hand-drawn sparkles to complete the mood.

For the romantics

Who knew flowers and flames would go together so well? Jisoo flaunted her rosy nails in the music video for her solo debut, "Flower." A little sparkle goes a long way with this set. "Just like with hair, makeup and clothing concepts, we pay close attention to nails to create a cohesive design concept," Park explained to L'Officiel.

The Pinks' Ink

While some of the members of Blackpink have never publicly confirmed their tattoos, they haven't been shy about showing them off, either. In September 2023, Rosé was spotted with a small cursive "h" on her arm, but the singer later said that it was an ephemeral tattoo meant to eventually fade. Meanwhile, fans noticed a small heart on Jisoo's rib cage at a concert in late 2022. Lisa sports a delicate fairy on her bicep, butterfly wings on her rib cage, "LLOUD" in cursive script on the inside of her wrist and an edelweiss flower (left) on her back. In an interview with Harper's Bazaar Korea in May 2023, she described how the star-shaped flower reminded her of summers spent in her stepfather's hometown in Switzerland, adding, "It also feels like first love."

Famous Friends

The girls have some big-name pals and celebrity fans.

Troye Sivan

While HBO's controversial drama The Idol wasn't renewed for a second season, it did lead to a beautiful friendship between co-stars—and IRL pop stars—Troye Sivan and Jennie. In a June 2023 interview with Billboard, Sivan described the "Solo" singer as "so, so lovely" and humble. "She was like, 'Yeah, well, I'm in a band,'" he said of their first meeting. "I was like, 'Are you serious? I know you're in a band. The entire world knows you're in a band!'"

Taylor Swift

There's no "Bad Blood" between Taylor Swift and Blackpink. At the 2022 MTV VMAs, Swift sang along during Blackpink's performance of "Pink Venom," and Rosé—a longtime fan of the "Anti-Hero" singer—hung out with Swift and Sabrina Carpenter (left) at a VMAs after-party. Rosé was also spotted leaving Swift's party at Electric Lady Studios in September 2023, sparking rumors of a collab, and attended Swift's Eras Tour in Tokyo.

SIP_242204_062-065.indd 62 3/13/24 12:31 PM

Jaden & Willow Smith

When Blackpink made history at Coachella in 2019 as the first K-pop girl group to perform at the festival, siblings Jaden and Willow Smith were just two of the celebrities in attendance. Jaden even gave Blackpink a shout-out during his set, where the Pinks joined the siblings' papa, Will Smith, in the front row. Lisa later joined Willow at Kanye West's Coachella Sunday Service, and they hung out again at Coachella in 2023.

Rosalía

Lisa and Rosalía made headlines when they went on a friend date to The Broad Museum in downtown Los Angeles in April 2023. The Spanish singer posted a series of gorgeous pics with Lisa on Instagram with the caption, "Mi amiga es más bonita que un Basquiat," which translates to, "My friend is prettier than a [Jean-Michel] Basquiat [painting]."

Twice

As the two biggest girl groups of K-pop's third generation, Blackpink and Twice are more than contemporaries—they're best friends! Jisoo and Jennie have been close to Twice's playful vocalist Nayeon since their trainee days, while Lisa is besties with dancer Mina and leader Jihyo (all three were born in 1997).

SIP_242204_062-065.indd 63 3/13/24 12:31 PM

Billie Eilish

What was Billie Eilish made for? To stan Blackpink, apparently. After cozying up to Jennie at Coachella in 2019—when Jennie posted an Instagram photo with Eilish and affectionately called her "my crush"—Lisa and Eilish snapped a cheery pic in the Coachella desert in 2023.

Hugh Grant

What started as a way to bond with his tween daughter quickly developed into full-blown standom. When Blackpink performed at BST Hyde Park in London in 2023, Hugh Grant was there to cheer them on. "Very grateful to three eleven year olds for taking me to see @BLACKPINK yesterday," the actor tweeted. "Am rabid Blink now. Slept with my heart hammer."

SIP_242204_062-065.indd 64 3/13/24 12:31 PM

Dua Lipa

Before she hit it big on the charts, Dua Lipa wrote "Kiss and Make Up" and sent it to Blackpink on a whim in 2018. It eventually led to the group's first crossover collaboration with a Western artist. Lipa has remained close to the girls since, and Jennie joined her for an episode of her podcast, Dua Lipa: At Your Service, in 2023.

Jung Ho-yeon

Before she was a SAG Award-winning Squid Game superstar, model and actor Jung Ho-yeon was Jennie's bestie. Jennie not only visited Jung on the set of the Netflix show, but she also sent a coffee truck to the set in support of her best friend. Speaking to Herald POP, Jung said, "She congratulated me so happily, as if my joys were also her own, that I wondered how such an angel could exist."

Ariana Grande

From fangirls to real-life friends! Over the years, the Pinks have shown their support for Ariana Grande on livestreams, singing along to her music and attending her Seoul, South Korea, concerts. Jisoo even danced along to "Side to Side" on the Korean music program Inkigayo in 2017. A few years later, they finally got to meet in person at Coachella, igniting a social media frenzy and a blossoming friendship. Fun fact: Grande co-wrote "Ice Cream," the collab between Blackpink and Selena Gomez. ♫

10 Best Music Videos

Blackpink rule the world—even in their music videos, which feature bold colors, stunning fashion and plenty of attitude. Let's take a look at their best visuals.

10 | As if It's Your Last (2017)

Youthful and vibrant, "As if It's Your Last" allowed Blackpink to truly be themselves. No, really: That's what the director told them to do on set. "We were like, 'How? How can we be ourselves?'" Rosé told Billboard in 2017, to which Jennie added, "That was the hardest thing to do." Racking up more than 11 million views on YouTube in its first 17 hours, it became the fastest music video to exceed 10 million views by a K-pop group at that time—breaking a record previously held by BTS.

9 | Stay (2016)

A fan favorite for a reason, "Stay" is a strummy ballad about heartbreak and yearning, and the visual is equally as sentimental. With longing stares, aimless wandering and muted colors, the video—from Han Sa-min, who also directed Big Bang's "Sober"—finds the members of Blackpink walking through the stages of grief before finally letting go and moving on, as depicted in the final scene where the girls dance together under a sign that reads, "Dance with me."

SIP_242204_066-069.indd 66 3/13/24 12:31 PM

8 | Pink Venom (2022)

The track begins with a traditional Korean string instrument called the gayageum, and the music video—reportedly the most expensive production in YG Entertainment's history—opens with Jisoo plucking it in front of hooded spectators. She actually learned to play the instrument for the music video. Later, Rosé is seen playing the electric guitar, which goes perfectly with the lyric "I'm so rock 'n' roll."

7 | Whistle (2016)

It all started with a whistle and a coy "Hey, boy." While no one could have possibly known what a global sensation Blackpink would become, the music video for "Whistle" laid down a few prophetic clues—like Rosé casually sitting atop the world. It earned the title of Best Music Video at the 2016 Mnet Asian Music Awards, and with more than 877 million views and counting, it's one of their most-viewed videos to date.

6 | Ice Cream (with Selena Gomez) (2020)

Given the track's title, it makes sense that the video for "Ice Cream" would be fun, colorful and sugary sweet. The concept is simple: Selena Gomez, wearing a candy-striped bikini and white sailor hat, drives an ice-cream truck, and the members of Blackpink all have a major sweet tooth. Filmed on a Candy Land-like set, the video was made possible with editing magic: Blackpink's scenes were filmed in South Korea, while Gomez's were shot in the U.S.

SIP_242204_066-069.indd 67 3/13/24 12:31 PM

5 | Shut Down (2022)

Blink and you'll miss it—the "Shut Down" music video actually features several callbacks to previous videos, from Rosé casually sitting atop the world (as she did in "Whistle"), but the globe is now painted black and pink, to Jennie lounging on top of a shimmering military tank while Jisoo shields herself with a pink umbrella as money falls from the sky (both scenes from "Ddu-Du Ddu-Du"), and Lisa sitting among stacks of pink cash and speakers (like in "Boombayah").

4 | How You Like That (2020)

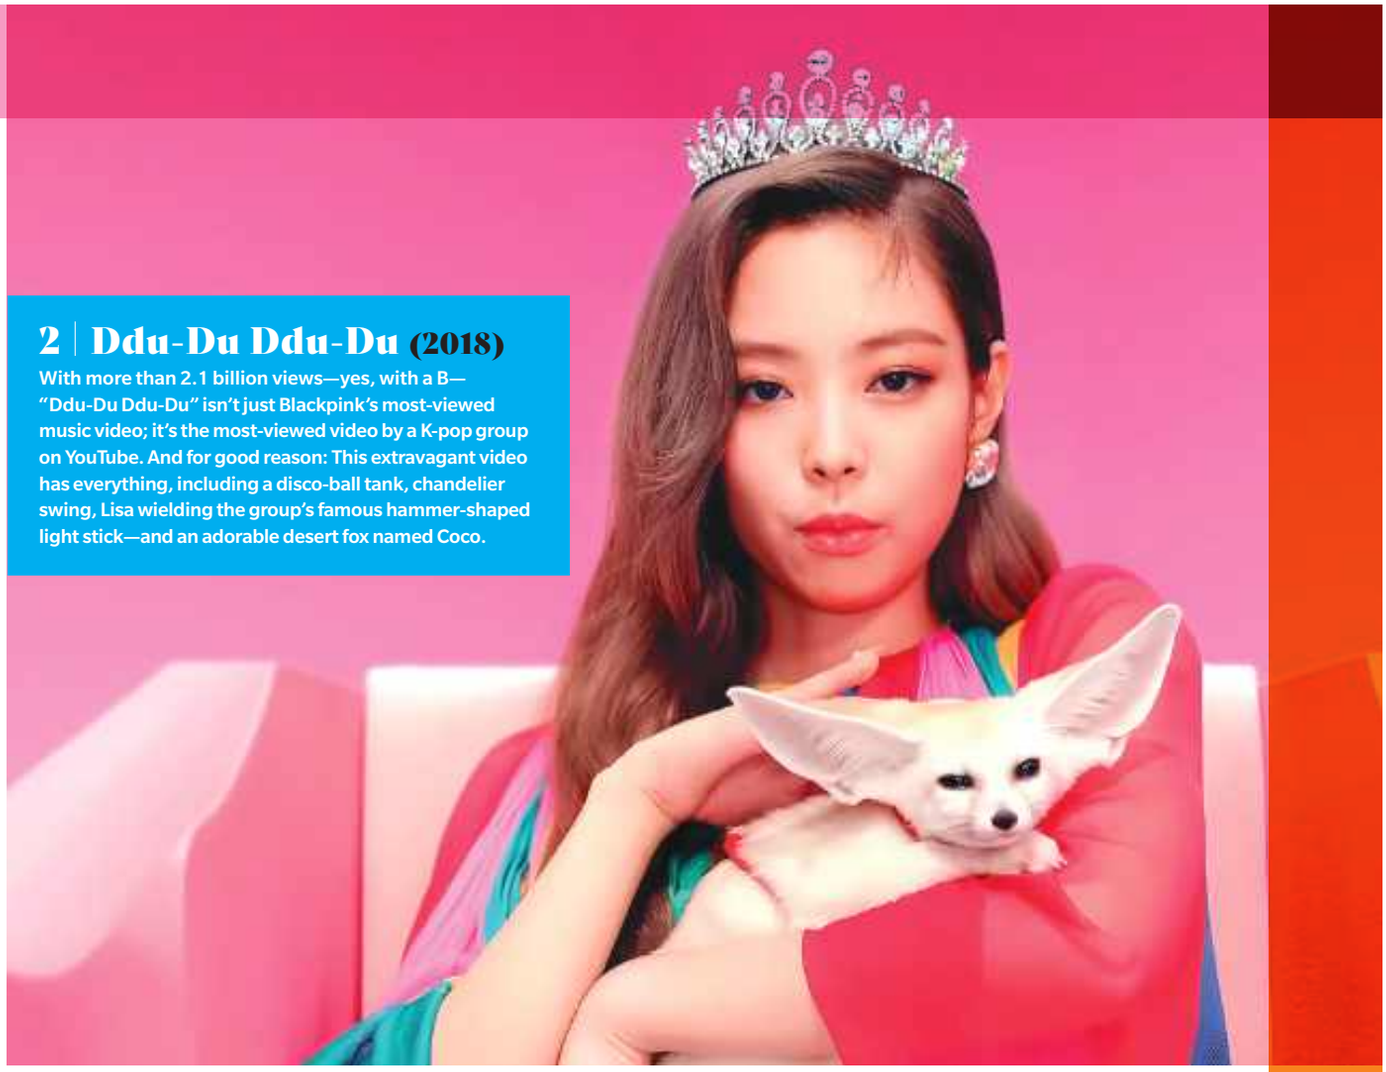

Not only is the video for "How You Like That" a visual masterpiece—from the lens of Seo Hyun-seung, who previously directed "Ddu-Du Ddu-Du" and "Kill This Love"—it also demonstrated Blackpink's ace performance skills. The video's epic finale, in which the Pinks wear modern hanbok designed by Danha, is a highlight—so much so that the track's viral performance video has over 1.5 billion views on YouTube to date, more than the actual music video!

3 | Kill This Love (2019)

Jisoo, Jennie, Rosé and Lisa are always serving looks in their music videos, but "Kill This Love" turns things up to 11, styling the girls in plenty of high-fashion pieces from Chanel, Givenchy, Versace, Alexander McQueen and Korean designer Hyein Seo. With so much slayage, it's not surprising that "Kill This Love" hit 100 million views within two days and 14 hours, faster than any other music video on YouTube at the time.

SIP_242204_066-069.indd 68 3/13/24 12:31 PM

2 | Ddu-Du Ddu-Du (2018)

With more than 2.1 billion views—yes, with a B—"Ddu-Du Ddu-Du" isn't just Blackpink's most-viewed music video; it's the most-viewed video by a K-pop group on YouTube. And for good reason: This extravagant video has everything, including a disco-ball tank, chandelier swing, Lisa wielding the group's famous hammer-shaped light stick—and an adorable desert fox named Coco.

1 | Lovesick Girls (2020)

A 3-minute music video that packs the emotional gut punch of an entire K-drama! The girls are really going through it in this clip after soured love has left them alone and in tears. The hazy visual's mysterious, tatted-up male lead—who's seen cuddled up to both Lisa and Rosé—is actually LØREN, an artist under The Black Label and a credited lyricist on several Blackpink songs including "Lovesick Girls."

Don't Forget the Lyrics

How well do you know the Pinks' songs? Circle the next line in these hits.

1. Didn't wanna be a princess, I am priceless:
a. In a love that can't be dismissed
b. A prince not even on my list
c. With a heart so righteous
d. In a world so lifeless

2. We all commit to love that makes you cry:
a. Holding on, though emotions may hide
b. With every tear, a kiss of goodbye
c. We're all making love that kills you inside
d. With every kiss, a piece of us dies

3. Ask me to be nice:
a. And then I'll do it extra mean
b. A facade so pretty, yet unseen
c. I'll give you sugar and spice
d. And I'll turn cold as ice

4. I'ma let you fade into the background:
a. I'm so much better when you're not around
b. Baby, all my shows are gettin' too loud
c. I'm in the spotlight where you're not allowed
d. While my spotlight steals the crowd

5. Typa girl that'll make you wanna dream:
a. Typa girl that's the star on every screen
b. Typa girl that's more than she may seem
c. Typa girl that goes to the extreme
d. Typa girl that came straight off of the screen

6. Rest in peace, please light up a candle:
a. I'ma girl you can't handle
b. In the silence, let the memories dangle
c. This the life of a vandal
d. I create a scandal wherever I go

7. Look so good, yeah, look so sweet:
a. Baby, I am that treat
b. Baby, you deserve a treat
c. Dancing to your own heartbeat
d. Like a melody on repeat

8. Told me to play it cool, I break the rules:
a. I'm breaking hearts in two
b. I'm nobody's fool
c. Igniting fires, a blazing fuel
d. Into the unknown, a rendezvous
