

Hadrian's Stone Design Studio and Gallery

Go on an art adventure at Edison's newest art gallery. The owner of the gallery, Houston Foist, puts a special focus on local and regional artists of all mediums.

An artist himself, Houston uses a proprietary material to replicate the look of granite, marble, or natural wood. His custom-designed vessel sinks, water fountains, benches, and dining room tables are on display at the gallery. "Any color, any texture, in a fraction of the time. I can make it look like natural wood or any natural stone." Houston explained.

Houston invites you to visit the gallery during the first weekend of every month to experience the revealing of a new show. Featured artists provide live demonstrations and the art shows often have a charity aspect with a portion of the proceeds going to a local nonprofit.
