

Two NYC places make Time's 'Greatest'

Time magazine has revealed the eighth installment of its annual World's Greatest Places List for 2026 — and two New York City cultural hotspots were part of the list.

Among this year's World's Greatest Places include Philadelphia's Netflix

House; the Disney Destiny cruise ship; the United Arab Emirates' Surf Abu Dhabi, which was the first artificial surf park to join the pro surf championship circuit; Universal Epic Universe in Orlando; London's new V&A Storehouse East; and Cizhong, China's Songtsam Lodge, a boutique hotel network that tries to get tourists out of the cities.

Two of the destinations that made the list were right here in New York City: Studio Museum in Harlem and The Frick Collection.

The Studio Museum was originally founded — famously above a liquor store — in 1968 and reopened in November 2025 after seven years of construction at 144 West 125th St.

The institution acts as both an archive and incubator for Black artists and Black culture.

The Frick Collection is known for its “intimate presentation” of European art, spanning the Renaissance through the late 19th century, housed in the original 70th Street home of Henry Clay Frick.
