

TEXTILE HIVE

SEPTEMBER NEWSLETTER

Our newest institutional member is....

Greetings, friends: we are proud to announce our newest member is none of than the Library of Congress!

The Library of Congress probably needs no introduction: as the largest library in the world, it's a prestigious resource that shares and preserves knowledge of all kinds for both educational and creative purposes. For the Library of Congress to become a member of Textile Hive, it means that the value of our collection has been recognized on a national level.

We couldn't be prouder of this milestone remembering Andrea's legacy and what it says about our textile collection. Designers, artists, and now researchers will now be able to search through our vast database of exquisitely detailed imagery.

We also invite you and your institution to become a Textile Hive member and join The Library of Congress. Textile Hive membership gives you access to an unparalleled resource for creative design. With over 2,300 searchable categories, Textile Hive features the most comprehensive search in the textile industry, inviting you to explore a collection that's influenced everything from fashion and home decor to stationery since it was established in 1987.

Mark Your Calendar for PTXM 2023

As we prepare to launch PTXM for the 6th year, we are excited to share a preview of some of the rich and diverse programming our textile communities are offering, including the four Interlaced Community events that Textile Hive will host starting September 30th. The Mixed Identities theme prompted an exciting array of workshops, lectures, and exhibits around the Portland area, with some artists coming from across the country and the world. We can't wait to see you in these creative spaces where we can connect, learn, and inspire each other as we celebrate our differences and our commonalities! Registrations and the full festival lineup will launch on

Exploring Andrea's Research Slides

We're extremely grateful to our summer intern Lucas for helping us make progress on a massive project we're very excited about: digitizing the thousands of research slides from Andrea's collecting trips.

Lucas was born and grew up in São Paulo, Brazil. He studied print making at OCAD University in Toronto and is currently working on his MFA on print media at PNCA in Portland.

The slides below capture two moments from Andrea's travels and the people who created and wore the textiles she found so inspiring. Make sure you're following our Instagram to see more of Lucas's curated selections from Andrea's travels in the 1970s and '80s and '90s.
