This season, we have an Aquarius solar eclipse in February and a Virgo lunar eclipse in March. Both of those mean big changes are on the horizon for everyone, but certain signs will feel the effects more than others. The signs most affected by the Aquarius eclipse include Taurus, Leo, Scorpio, and, of course, Aquarius, while the Virgo eclipse will have the biggest impact on Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius, and Pisces. But we have yet another Mercury retrograde smack dab in the middle of eclipse season, so any changes from the eclipses might be slightly delayed. Wondering what else to expect? Read the winter horoscope for your sign below.

Aries

It's time for you to get down to work during Capricorn season. You might be starting off the new year with a burst of busyness at your job, so be sure to take advantage of relaxation time during the holidays. It could be a good time to start looking for new positions if you're considering leaving your current job, too. Get in some good socialization with friends during Aquarius season, as you'll want to focus on yourself when Pisces season arrives. Use the Virgo eclipse energy during Pisces season to prioritize your mental and physical health. It's a good opportunity to start a new workout routine or deep clean your house so you'll feel refreshed.

Taurus

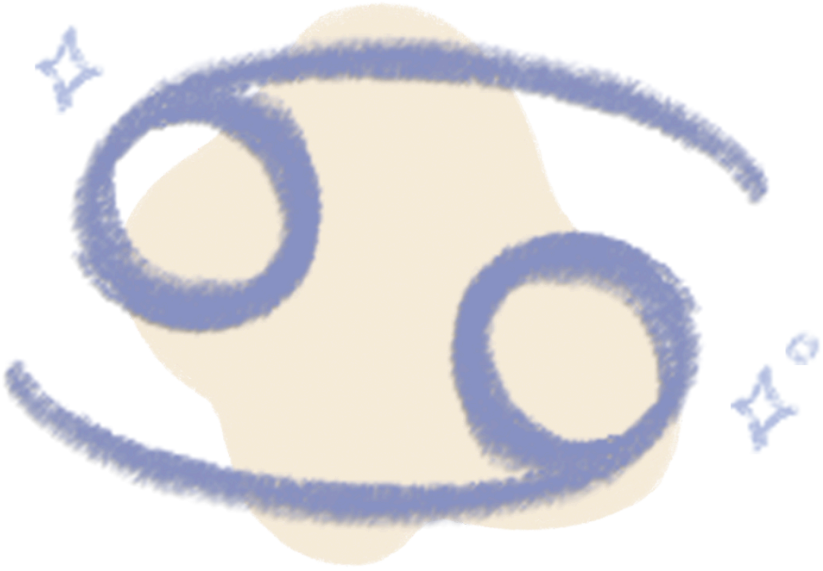

While you tend to be a homebody, Taurus, you'll feel the urge to travel during Capricorn season. You might be going on a big trip or making plans for one later in the year. Head to the bookstore or look up online classes you can sign up for, since you'll likely become interested in a new subject, too. Aquarius season will be more focused on work. You might feel like you've outgrown your role, or you might be working toward a promotion. Look out for any new job opportunities around the solar eclipse on February 17. Don't worry if you're starting to feel burnt out—you'll get to let loose a little and spend more time with friends when Pisces season arrives.

Gemini

Capricorn season is a great time for you to take a look at your finances, Gemini. You could get a raise at work, or you might start seeing a payoff from investments you've made. Try to save up during this time because you'll be itching to travel (or at least plan a trip) during Aquarius season. While you always enjoy learning, you'll really lean into that with the Aquarius energy, too. Consider looking into seminars or classes you can take to improve your skills at work, as Pisces season will be all about your career. Now's the time to work extra hard for a promotion or start searching for a new job if you're not happy where you are now.

Cancer

It can be hard to get one-on-one time with your significant other or close friends during the busyness of the holidays, but try to prioritize making plans with them during Capricorn season. The solar eclipse in Aquarius is a great opportunity to rethink your current spending habits. It could even bring up a raise at your job, or you might be trying to combine finances with your partner. Definitely try to save any money you receive because you could be booking a vacation during Pisces season. Now's also the ideal time to get back into reading or to find a podcast or documentary to learn more about something that interests you.

Leo

Use the Capricorn season to get your life in order so you'll feel ready to take on the new year, Leo. Whether you want to be more organized, stick to a stricter exercise schedule, or find a new therapist, now's a good time to get started. With the solar eclipse in Aquarius, you can expect changes within your close relationships, such as getting engaged or starting to see someone exclusively. Think about what you want from a partner if you're single or currently dating someone. The Pisces season and the Virgo eclipse will also bring money opportunities. You could receive an unexpected monetary gift, or you might be considering starting a side hustle.

Virgo

You're ending the year on a fun note, with the sun in Capricorn. Expect plenty of romance, whether you're single or in a relationship. It's a good season to pick up a new hobby, too. The end of February and beginning of March may feel a little chaotic for you, since your ruler Mercury goes retrograde, and there's a lunar eclipse in your sign. The eclipse could lead to major changes in your life, but things might be delayed while Mercury is retrograde. Don't fret—change doesn't necessarily mean something bad. You might be taking the next step with your significant other, or you might meet someone you can actually see a future with.

Libra

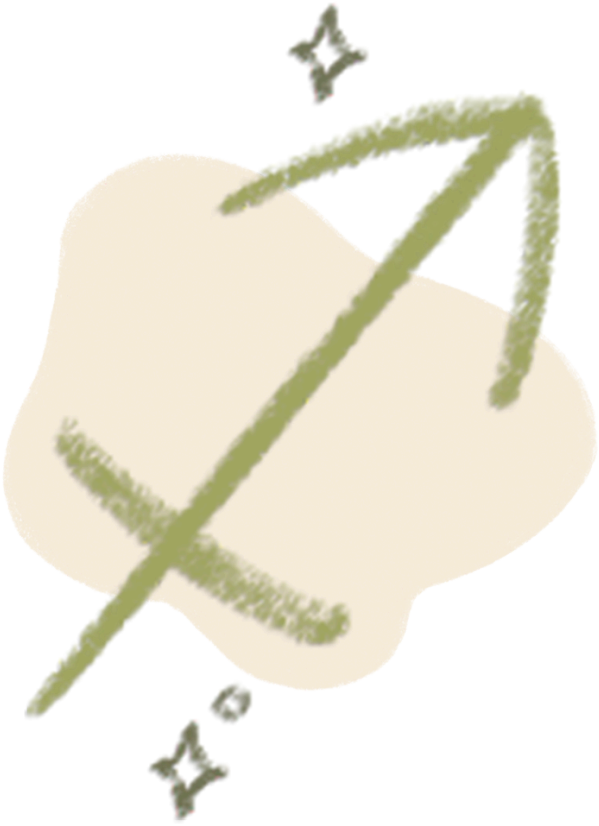

Capricorn season means home and family time for you, Libra. Make the most of the holiday season by catching up with family members you don't get to see often. You also might be getting ready to move or redecorate, so use any free time to declutter or make mood boards of your ideal decor. Aquarius season is the perfect time to jump back into the dating pool if you're single. If you're in a relationship, plan a date night somewhere new or do a new activity to reignite the spark. Chores you've been avoiding could sneak up on you during Pisces season. Try to stick to a schedule so you don't get overwhelmed, whether it's with work tasks or errands.

Scorpio

Use the Capricorn season energy to work on your communication, whether it's letting others know how you feel or improving your presentation skills for work. This will especially come in handy at the end of February, since Mercury retrograde can stir up a lot of miscommunication. Aquarius season and the solar eclipse will focus on the part of your chart associated with home. You might book a last-minute trip to visit family members, or you might be catching up on projects around the house that you've been putting off, like finally fixing that dripping faucet. If you're single, put yourself out there during Pisces season, as you could meet someone special. For Scorpios in relationships, turn up the romance with your current partner.

Sagittarius

Capricorn season is a good time for you to make a budget for yourself, especially after your season and the holidays. Start the new year off right with a plan so you don't give in to impulse purchases. Your love of learning and traveling will be on display during Aquarius season. You could devour a new book series, or you might be planning a vacation with friends. Communications projects, like presentations or reports, might come up at work, too. The Virgo eclipse in March might make you rethink your career. Take some time to consider how you feel about your current position and what you might want in a future role. A new job opening or promotion opportunity could present itself around then, too.

Capricorn

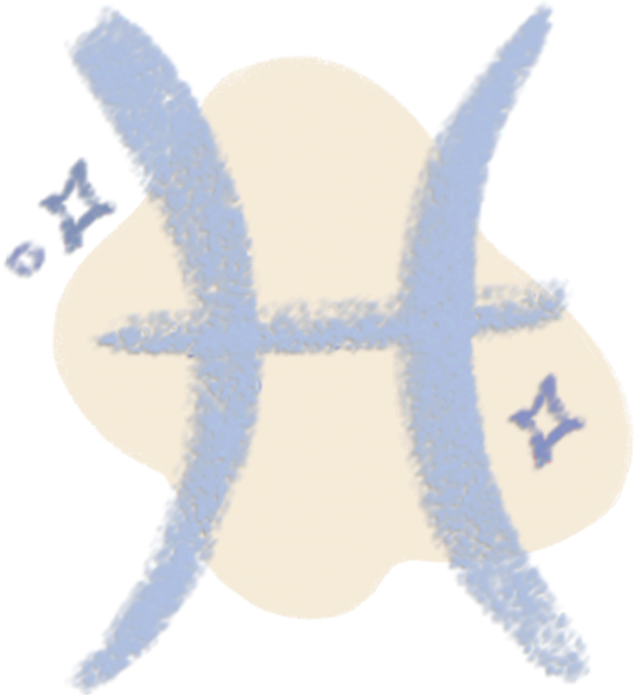

It's your season to shine, Capricorn. With the sun in your sign, you'll get lots of attention. Use this opportunity to make a name for yourself at work or to ask out the person you've been crushing on at the gym. The Aquarius eclipse could have you reconsidering what you find valuable, making it a great time to clear out clutter so you can make way for things you actually want and use. Then the Pisces season and the lunar eclipse in Virgo will give you the travel bug. You might take the plunge and book that major trip somewhere you've never been before. If you don't have upcoming travel plans, consider gathering friends for a fun weekend or day trip to switch up your surroundings.

Aquarius

As an Aquarius, your mind is always going, so you might start to feel overstimulated during the craziness of the holidays. Try to find time to unwind and focus on yourself during Capricorn season. That way, you'll feel refreshed and ready to enjoy your season, which begins on January 19. Thanks to the eclipse in your sign, you may be considering major changes during this time. Break out a notebook and write down your goals for the upcoming year, whether they're personal or professional. Avoid making any big moves while Mercury is retrograde, though, as you might run into some issues.

Pisces

You probably have a lot of holiday gatherings to attend during Capricorn season with tons of friends vying for your attention, but you'll get more downtime when Aquarius season arrives. Aquarius season and the Aquarius eclipse on February 17 are the perfect time to focus on your mental health. Whether you've been stressed about work or the holidays, consider taking up meditation or journaling, or make an appointment with a therapist. Your season starts on February 18, pushing you into the spotlight. It won't be all about you, though. The Virgo eclipse will impact your close relationships, and you could be taking the next step with someone, or you might be working things out with your partner.
