I don't know about you, but this winter has felt endless to me. Luckily, spring is finally here. (The official first day of the season is March 20, but personally, I consider the beginning of March to be the start of spring.) Flowers are blooming, and birds are chirping, which means one thing: Your spring horoscopes are here.

The beginning of spring may feel a little chaotic, as March has two eclipses (one in Virgo and one in Aries), and Mercury went retrograde on March 15. As always, make the best of Mercury retrograde by backing up your devices, double-checking travel plans, and blocking your ex's number. Find out what else spring 2025 has in store for you below.

Important Dates to Know

- March 14: Lunar eclipse in Virgo
- March 15: Mercury retrograde begins
- March 20: Aries season begins
- March 29: Solar eclipse in Aries
- April 7: Mercury retrograde ends
- April 12: Full moon in Libra
- April 19: Taurus season begins
- April 27: New moon in Taurus
- May 12: Full moon in Scorpio
- May 20: Gemini season begins
- May 26: New moon in Gemini

Aries

With the eclipse in your sign at the end of March, you might be questioning how things currently are in your life, whether it's your career path or your wardrobe. You may want to consider making a major change if you've been mulling over it for a while. With your season starting on March 20, it's kind of like your own personal fresh start, and this is a great time to make a list of goals for this upcoming year. Try to take control of your spending before Taurus season arrives on April 19 because you might have a hard time saying no to impulse purchases and little treats during this time.

Taurus

You'll have tons of plans during Pisces season. As a chill Taurus, you might be tempted to turn down some invites to lounge at home, but try to get out of your comfort zone and go out more.

Aries season will deliver plenty of alone time, so you'll be able to rest and recharge your social battery. As a luxury-loving Taurus, you don't need an excuse to treat yourself, but your season is the best time to do it. Don't be afraid to go all out when Taurus season arrives. Get a blowout, splurge on that designer bag you've been eyeing, or take yourself out to a fancy dinner.

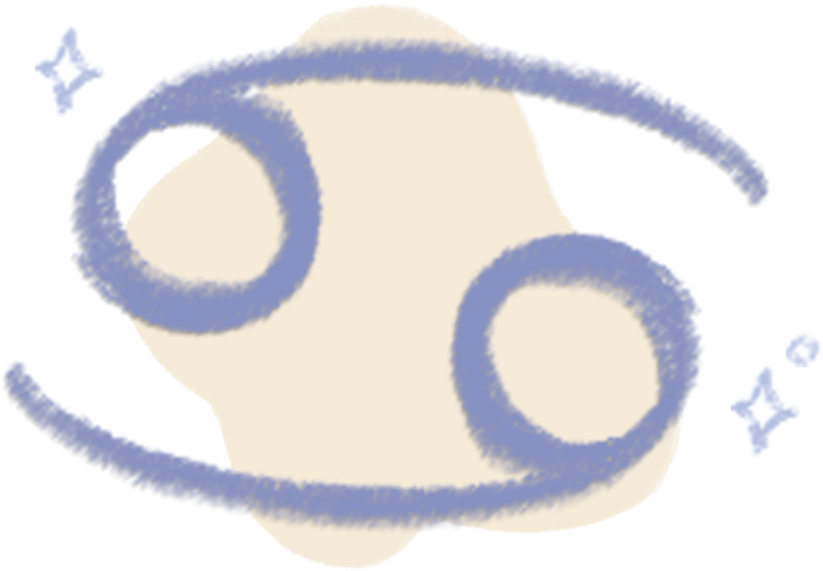

Gemini

Work will be a big theme for you in March, and your ruler, Mercury, went retrograde on March 15, though you may have been feeling the effects for some time before. Be sure to slow down and be extra vigilant at your job to avoid any careless errors or miscommunications during this time. Don't freak out if you've been applying to new positions and haven't heard back, as Mercury retrograde can slow things down. When Aries season begins, you'll be more focused on friends. Gather your whole squad to go out to dinner or invite people over to host a The Bachelor-watching party.

Taurus season will have you craving some alone time, so get out all your social energy in March and the first half of April.

Cancer

You'll be on a hunt to expand your horizons during Pisces season, whether you decide to take an online class or book an international trip. With Aries season and the March 29 eclipse highlighting the part of your chart associated with your career, you could be facing changes at work. It's a good time for you to consider whether you're happy with your current job and what you want your path to look like in the future. You might even be surprised by an unexpected job opportunity. When Taurus season starts, you'll be feeling more social, and you'll have plenty of chances to spend time with friends. Just don't let your homebody self get burned out by making too many plans.

Leo

During Pisces season, especially after the Virgo eclipse, you'll have money on your mind. It could be a good time to start a side hustle or to ask for a raise at work. Aries season will be a learning time period for you. You could develop an interest in something totally new, or you might even be considering going back to school to earn another degree. Everything else will take a back seat to your job during Taurus season when you could be juggling a lot of projects at once. Try not to get too bogged down with work, though, and make time for your hobbies and other activities outside of work.

Virgo

I'm not going to lie; the start of March might be a bit rough for you, Virgo, since your ruler, Mercury, goes retrograde, and there's an eclipse in your sign. As a perfectionistic Virgo, you'll want to triple-check that you've dotted all your Is and crossed all your Ts so you don't wind up with any miscommunications. During March and April, you'll be focused on your significant other or close friends and getting to know them on a deeper level. Then, during Taurus season, your intellectual side will really get to shine. Dive into a new subject or book genre, or buy yourself a MasterClass subscription.

Libra

The beginning of spring will be focused on your daily routine. Use this energy to catch up on laundry, do a deep clean of your house, or finish up admin tasks at work. This is also a good time to start a new workout routine if you've been in a rut lately. When the Aries eclipse happens, you could be facing changes to your one-on-one relationships. Take time to evaluate your friends or partner to decide where they stand with you and if the relationship is still serving you. Taurus season could bring up opportunities when it comes to money, such as getting a return on investments, receiving a raise, or learning about a freelance position.

Scorpio

Pisces season will be a fun time for you, Scorpio. Try out a new creative hobby like knitting or scrapbooking. Definitely say yes to plans during this time because you could meet someone you might want to date through your network. If you're already in a relationship, use this season to prioritize time with your significant other. Aries season won't be quite as fun, and you'll be getting back to your usual routine of errands and daily tasks. But when Taurus season arrives, you'll get the chance to spend time with close friends or the person you're dating, so get all of your chores out of the way before then so you can really focus on the important people in your life.

Sagittarius

For you, Sagittarius, career themes will come up during the time surrounding the Virgo eclipse on March 14. If you've been considering a change, you might finally get the push you need to find a new job or start your own company. During Pisces season, you might want to stay at home more than your usual extroverted self does, but that will change when Aries season arrives. Fire up your dating apps to meet someone, or if you're already dating someone, plan a romantic dinner date. You'll be feeling especially artsy during this time, too, so try an adult coloring book or a creative writing class. It can't all be fun and games, though; you'll have a lot of chores to catch up on during Taurus season.

Capricorn

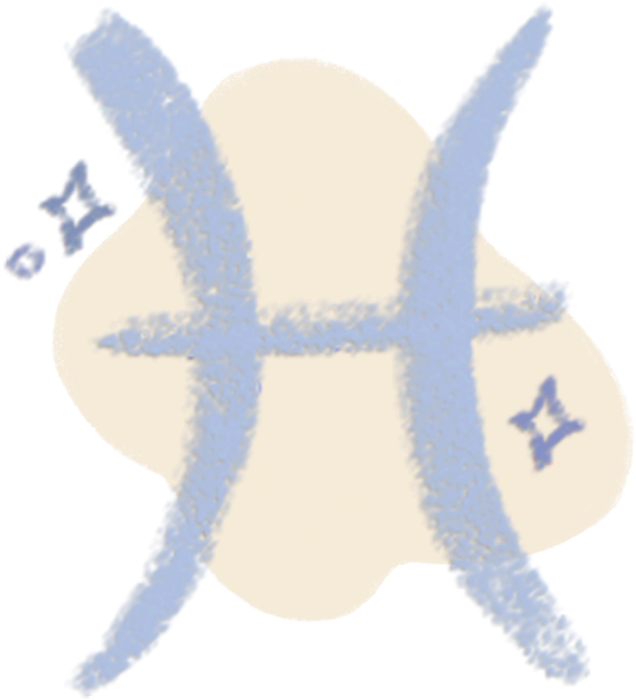

With the Aries eclipse in March, you could be moving, or you might feel like rearranging all your furniture. Take some time to upgrade your decor to fit your current aesthetic, especially if it's been years since you redecorated. If you're planning to move in the near future, it could be a good time to start hunting for your perfect place. As a Capricorn, you're not exactly known for being the lovey-dovey type, but Taurus season will have you wanting to up your romance game. Go out of your way to say hi to your work crush, or come up with a new activity you can do with your significant other.

Aquarius

Pisces season is a great time for you to evaluate your finances. After the Virgo eclipse, you could get some extra cash in your account, whether it's from investments or from being stricter about your budget. Aries season will give you the chance to lean into your love of learning and knack for communication. You might have more writing or presenting tasks at work or school, which should come easily to you as an Aquarius. You're usually out and about and socializing most of the time, but Taurus season will give you a chance to relax. Block off some Netflix nights on your calendar so you'll have an excuse to stay home more often.

Pisces

March starts off during your season, so take advantage of it to focus on self-care. Book a spa day, or take your book to get a mani-pedi and relax. With all the attention on you, this is also a great time to put yourself out there, and you might even meet someone you're interested in dating during or after the Virgo eclipse. Aries season and the time around the Aries eclipse are good chances for you to set a budget for yourself and be more diligent about tracking your spending. Before buying anything, think about whether it's actually essential or just more stuff you don't really need. Taurus season will have you feeling more chatty and social but try to keep your budget in mind when making plans.
