A campaign is a critical moment for you and your nonprofit organization.

Failure to meet your goal could spell disaster:

- Angry donors could take their money elsewhere.
- Disappointed board members and staff might leave your organization.
- Bad press could ruin your philanthropic brand.

There is too much at stake to leave your campaign to chance.

Hiring a campaign consultant sets you up for fundraising success.

The Ideal Consultant Will Help You...

...implement a custom campaign strategy.

...recruit and train volunteer leadership.

...cultivate gifts and manage donor relationships.

...stay organized so you complete your campaign on time.

You need a consultant who is as invested in your campaign as you are.

Don't embark on your campaign journey alone.

When your nonprofit is conducting a campaign, there is a lot to worry about. Between constant committee meetings, intensive fundraising, and big events, you might find you barely have time for your mission—the very reason you launched a campaign in the first place. You need a partner who will keep your campaign on track so you can keep serving your community.

Cramer & Associates will drive your campaign forward. When you engage us, we become a part of your team, dedicated to meeting—or exceeding—your fundraising goals. The partnerships we build have the power to change the world, and we're ready to partner with you.

Building Relationships, Generating Results

When you start a campaign, you have the chance to do something incredible—something more than building a new facility, launching an innovative program, or increasing your endowment. You have the chance to grow your donor base, transform your organization, and inspire your community.

It all starts with relationships.
