Magnum Opus

The moment has finally come
I've been painting for so long now
I was worried that no one would look at my paintings
They used to love them
Every night, they were shown to crowds
Now, other artists are stealing the show
My show
But now, things are different
The subject of my next piece is a brother and a sister
A classic
I painted them beautifully and displayed it in the city park
The next morning, I saw people screaming at my painting
In joy or in fear?
Is there really a difference?
The ignorant masses accept these paintings as normal
This is our magnum opus
A piece that will be seen
You're right
This is our painting
Isn't it beautiful?
Their screams….are.
