nomics majors; majors ranged "across the board," explained Likness.

This year seven juniors were initiated. Juniors elected must have received junior standing and thus do not have to have met the 90 hour liberal arts and sciences requirement by the time of initiation. They do have to meet foreign language and math requirements, and be at the top of the GPA listing for the junior class. According to Likness this year's junior class GPA cutoff was just under 3.8.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded five months and a day after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, December 5, 1776, by a group of students from the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, VA. It was the first Greek letter society, originally organized as a social club with the principles of secrecy, a badge, Greek and Latin mottos, an elaborate initiation, a token of salutation and a seal. It summed up its ideals in the words "fraternity, morality and literature," according to a Phi Beta Kappa history book.

Although originally Phi Beta Kappa was not a strictly scholarly society, according to original records, they held meetings and discussed such subjects as "the cause and origin of society," and "whether the fair sex conduce to the improvement of ours." Membership was restricted to men.

Women were first admitted in 1875 at the University of Vermont and were formally included in the bylaws when the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa first formed in 1881, according to the Phi Beta Kappa handbook for new members.

Today there are 240 chapters across the United States. The Phi Beta Kappa chapter helps to sponsor a visiting scholar each year; this year Trinity sponsored mathematician Alan Hoffman to commemorate Mathematics Awareness Week □ says the yellow level of Laurie Auditorium's parking lot, which is locked from midnight to 8 a.m. is okay for minimum security. He would rather see the dish clamped down permanently with cement blocks; "or else we're going to see it go down Hildebrand."

Security has not received written instructions from IMS concerning the satellite's safety, but security personnel has been keeping a concerned eye on the dish's every move.

Currently, the IMS is still in its learning stages and will have the dish fully functioning in the next two weeks. Once past this stage, the dish has the capability to perform numerous functions.

Hildebrand said a decision on a permanent place will come in about six months. In the meantime, perhaps with the help of plants and other greenery, the dish will be camouflaged and pronounced aesthetically pleasing and nonobtrusive. □
