

Marvel Studios Announces Phase 4 Movies and TV Shows and We Can't Cope with the Excitement

Over a span of 11 years and 23 movies, we have been marveling at Marvel's Cinematic Universe and indulging in the infinity saga that is officially wrapped with Spider-man: Far from Home. Last April, we cried our eyes and hearts out watching the mind-blowing finale, Avengers: Endgame, which brought a thrilling, emotional, and satisfying conclusion to the saga and also marked the end of the road for some of our favorite characters. We will always love them 3000. Sniff-Sniff

However, there's that gut-dropping feeling, that empty feeling that you know the journey is over! Is that it? Do we have to go on with our lives now without Marvel superheroes having our backs?

Hell no! Let us wipe your tears away because there's a lot to celebrate.

In their presentation in San Diego Comic-con 2019, Marvel Studios made some huge and exciting announcements that will get you pumped up.

Let's start with this history-making moment where Avengers: Endgame has finally toppled James Cameron's Avatar to become the highest-grossing movie of all time. Avatar has been really stubborn about giving up its 10-year reign as the highest-grossing film- but just like Thanos, Avengers has beaten it. It is worth mentioning that Marvel released Endgame in theaters again on June 28; this time featuring extra footage that was deleted from the original movie.

MCU wonders don't stop here. During their panel, Marvel Studios revealed their big plans for Phase 4 that includes 5 movies and 5 TV shows to be aired on Disney +. We are so psyched with the new Phase for a lot of reasons, Angelina Jolie is joining MCU-hooray-, Natalie Portman brings female Thor to life, more of Tom Hiddleston's Loki, Mahershala Ali is cast for the Blade reboot, Scarlett Johansson is getting her Natasha Romanoff standalone movie, in addition to a bunch of long-anticipated sequels.

Here's Marvel's Phase 4 Movies

Black Widow - May 1, 2020

Phase 4 starts with a Black Widow movie. Although Endgame SPOILERS brought an end to Natasha Romanoff, Scarlett's solo movie is expected to unfold Romanoff's dark and twisted past.

The Eternals - November 6, 2020

The Eternals has an ensemble cast of Angelina Jolie, Salma Hayek, Game of Thrones' Richard Madden, Kumail Nanjiani, and more coming as immortal beings. While this could mean a lot of things, it definitely means that we get to see Rob Stark immortal! Now you're talking!

Shang-Chi And The Legend Of The Ten Rings - February 12, 2021

Marvel's Phase 4 is delivering more diversity, kicking off its first Kung Fu movie and introducing Shang-Chi, the first Asian-American superhero.

Doctor Strange In The Multiverse Of Madness - May 7, 2021

There's a lot more into Doctor Strange's world to unravel. Only this time, it's getting darker and more frightening, sending chills down our spines. Scott Derrickson said and we quote: "We are going to make the first scary MCU film."

Thor: Love And Thunder - November 5, 2021

It seems that Captain America is not the only one who is worthy of lifting Mjolnir, Thor's Hammer. Jane Foster, also known as Female Thor, is proving herself worthy as well keeping us all on our toes.

There were also other announcements for what could be Phase 5 but there were no specific movie release dates. However, Phase 5 is expected to begin by 2022. These movies are Blade, Black Panther 2, Captain Marvel 2, Guardians of the Galaxy Vol.3, Fantastic Four, and a cue to an X-Men movie.

Here's Marvel's Phase 4 TV Shows

The Falcon and the Winter Soldier – Fall 2020

Anthony Mackie showed up on Comic-con stage holding Captain America's shield teasing us maybe about what the future holds for Captain America and Falcon.

WandaVision – Spring 2021

Lucky fans at Comic-con were given glimpses of the series starring Kate Olsen and Paul Bettany, the star-crossed superheroes. We could hate Thanos more for what he did to them.

Loki – Spring 2021

Our wishes are coming true. The charismatic British actor, Tom Hiddleston, reprises his role, Loki the God of Mischief in this series that is expected to stream on Disney +. We couldn't think of anyone else to take on Loki except for Hiddleston. That's why we LOVE Marvel and we are on pins and needles for this one in particular.

What If...? – Summer 2021

As its name suggests, the up-and-coming animated series might just blow our minds with a lot of possibilities and hypothetical scenarios in the MCU. Some of our favorite Marvel superheroes are going to voice their animated counterparts.

Hawkeye – Fall 2021

This is the fifth and final TV series in Marvel's Phase 4. Hawkeye is getting his own TV series along Kate Bishop, Hawkeye's protégé and a member of the Young Avengers.

Pheww, we are sure that this is going to be another character-rich, visually-spectacular Marvel journey of well-knitted intertwined storylines. After 3 wildly- successful Phases of MCU, we don't expect any less in this upcoming Phase. Only this time, Marvel Studios will have to beat their own record.

So tell us what you are most excited to watch.
