Fifteenth Annual
Cancer Conference
Sept. 4 through 6

When cancer happens, both patients and their families suddenly find themselves on an unplanned journey. Fortunately, there is an oasis along the way where travelers can pack some help and hope, understanding and support into their bags. The place is Anderson Network's Living Fully with Cancer Conference for patients and caregivers, Sept. 4 through 6, at the Omni Houston Hotel Westside in Houston.

"The Unplanned Journey," offers a suitcase full of health information, including a panel of The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center's top medical experts, 24 breakout sessions addressing the latest in cancer treatments and side effects, and wellness workshops introducing a variety of complementary modalities intended to enhance quality of life. There also will be a survivor panel, round-table discussions over lunch, line dancing and a Friday evening banquet with stand-up comedian and cancer survivor, Robert Schimmel.

Sept. 5, Bob Arnot, M.D., takes a break from his assignment as NBC special foreign correspondent to share his role in the health care realm over the last 30 years. He will be followed by Ted Kennedy Jr., a bone cancer survivor who found himself on this unplanned journey very early in life.

Saturday will feature actress Marcia Wallace, the secretary on "The Bob Newhart Show," who will discuss her life both caregiver to her husband, who died of pancreatic cancer, and as a breast cancer patient. Closing the conference will be Bob Watson, the first African-American general manager in Major League Baseball and a survivor of prostate cancer.

The cost of the conference is $60 per person. It is open to all cancer patients, regardless of where treatment was received, as well as their family members and friends.
