

RAPIST PC FACES PENSION BLOCK

LONDON Mayor Sadiq Khan is attempting to block the pension of a rapist former Met officer – said to be £10k a year, his office says.

Ex-Pc Adam Provan, 44, was last week jailed for 16 years for a series of rapes, including attacks on a female officer and a 16-year-old.

Home Office guidance says former officers' pensions can only be blocked if

■ by GEORGE LITHGOW offending was “committed in connection with their service as a member of a force”. A spokesman for Mr Khan’s office said: “Following the conviction of Adam Provan for these truly horrendous crimes, the Mayor’s Office for Policing and Crime are pursuing forfeiture of this former officer’s pension.”

JAILED: Provan

Body parts at cliff path

POLICE have launched a murder probe after human remains were discovered beside a cliff path.

“Partial” remains were spotted by a member of the public near Boscombe’s Manor Steps, Dorset.

Vape trash is on move

A STUDENT used 80 discarded vape batteries to power an e-scooter.

Tobiasz Stanford, 23, of Trowbridge, Wilts, said: “They are very active still yet they’re marketed as disposable. It needs to stop.”

SHRINK RECKONS CRAZY MOB IN PARLIAMENT COMPARE TO EVIL KILLERS

Psychos at the top

EVIL: Kerry, far left, has assessed notorious killers. Left, Wakefield jail. Top row above, Nilsen, Brady and Bronson. Bottom row, Williamson, Cole and Sutcliffe

■ NURSE Lucy Letby murdered seven babies because it gave her a sense of power and control, says Kerry Daynes.

Letby, left, received 14 whole life sentences for murdering seven babies and trying to kill six others at the Countess of Chester Hospital. But the question remains: Why did she do it?

■ Kerry says: “I think Letby is likely to be in years of therapy before she fully understands it herself. “What really stands out to me is her self-loathing and inadequacy. We know medical abusers – the Harold Shipmans of this world – are often attracted to medical roles because of the status, the trust and that feeling of being important and competent. “If I had to hazard a guess, I’d say she harmed these children because it gave her a sense of power and control. “I think Letby will be at a very high risk of self-harm. It will be interesting to see whether she stays in the prison service or at some point ends up in mental health services.”

ON SALE NOW

RUGBY WORLD CUP 2023 £3/£3

ONLY £3

Your bumper 48-page guide to the tournament in France

Powered by DAILY MIRROR

Follow England’s journey to the final with the ultimate guide to the World Cup 2023

VISIT WWW.REACHSHOPS.CO.UK/RUGBY

Online orders postage and packaging applies.

SHE’S worked with serial killers including Dennis Nilsen, Ian Brady and Peter Sutcliffe in her 30 years as a forensic psychologist.

But Kerry Daynes reckons psychopaths also lurk in the corridors of power at Westminster.

She says: “A psychopath is somebody whose brain works in a different way – whose emotional processing systems are different to the rest of us.

“And it causes them to engage in cold, callous and unfeeling behaviour. I’d say half of Westminster are probably psychopaths.

“I can tell you what’s on a psychopathy checklist – somebody who’s parasitic, who’s got a superficial charm, somebody who is callous to the feelings of others, somebody who is reckless – Boris Johnson, isn’t it?”

EXCLUSIVE ■ by NADINE LINGE

She adds: “Research has shown there are just as many psychopaths in top-level management positions as there are in the prison system. And I think we should pay more attention to the ones who lead the country.”

Kerry started her career at Wakefield Prison, the high-security unit dubbed “Monster Mansion”, and has since gone on to work in a range of different facilities and with police and courts.

She says: “I work with everyone from shoplifters to serial killers. I’ve met Ian Brady and Peter Sutcliffe. Dennis Nilsen used to stay in regular contact with me – whether I liked it or not.”

She was also the independent psychologist who assessed Charles Bronson for his parole hearing earlier this year, getting to know him over a two-year period.

Abuse

She argued he should be moved to open conditions, but he was denied release by the Parole Board.

“I’m still in contact with him and I’ve got a couple of pieces of his artwork on my desk,” says Kerry.

“The trouble is that the system doesn’t know what to do with him. There’s not been a violent incident since 2018.”

Kerry turns her attention to the murder of five-year-old Logan Mwangi for tonight’s episode of discovery+ show Faking It. He was found dead in a river in Bridgend, south Wales, in July 2021. Mum Angharad Williamson and her partner John Cole were convicted of his murder, alongside Cole’s 14-year-old stepson Craig Mulligan. Williamson and Cole were jailed for life.

Mixed-race Logan was found with 56 external injuries after months of abuse at the hands of Williamson and racist Cole, a former member of the National Front.

Kerry says: “We find it really difficult to comprehend that women are capable of violence or of allowing something like that to happen to their child.

“And yet the truth of the matter is that I see this in clinical practice all the time.

“Logan would still be alive if Williamson had not had a relationship with Cole. The odds were stacked against him as soon as his mother invited that man into her home.

“You’ve got a child who is mixed race and yet you form a relationship with someone you know is a former member of the National Front.

“She was willing to make allowances and excuses for his violence and racism. Logan was an object standing in the way of what she perceived as her future.”

Logan died from internal bleeding and blunt trauma injuries to his head that were so severe they were more akin to someone involved in a high-speed car accident.

Kerry says: “What is evident is that Logan did not die instantly from his injuries and he would have been in extreme pain for a long period of time.

“There was a window of opportunity to get help for Logan and not one of them decided to make that choice. He died in the most horrendous way, probably alone.”

● Faking It series 7 is available to stream on discovery+

WACKOS: Parliament and, inset left, ex-PM Johnson